POLITICAL.

The Tammany Candidate to Make "Reparation."

An Old Vermont Democrat on the Situation.

Another Leading Minnesota Democrat for Grant.

Greeley to Secure the Removal of Negro Suffrage.

How the Republicans of Illinois Are Working.

Greeley to Make "Reparation."

The Lexington (Ky.) Press, a Bourbon Democratic supporter of Greeley, seeking to bring its Bourbon readers to his support, says: "But Mr. Greeley, it is said, was the earnest advocate, if not the author, of the very legislation which has reduced the Southern people to their present deplorable condition. Suppose that it is so. He has nevertheless had the frankness and the boldness to recognize and acknowledge his mistake. He offers to make all the reparation in his power."

An Old Vermont Democrat's Position.

Hon. Henry R. Campbell, formerly of Burlington, Vt., now a resident of South Amboy, N. J., has written a letter to Senator Edmunds, in favor of the re-election of President Grant. Mr. Campbell first voted for Andrew Jackson, and in 1860 headed the Breckinridge Democratic electoral ticket of Vermont. The Burlington Free Press describes him as "a sturdy Democrat, and a 'square,' honest and patriotic man as the sun ever shone upon." In his letter he says: "Since 1828 it has been the privilege of every Democrat to vote for a 'straight' Democratic candidate for the Presidency—until the present contest, when the Congressional leaders claiming to control the Democracy of the country' sold out' to the 'Greeley faction.' Bargain and sale is now the order of the day. The leaders in the business, Hoffman, Thurman, Hendricks, &c., heretofore trusted men in the Democratic ranks, and evidently expecting to be the power behind the Greeley throne, have reckoned without their host in nominating Greeley. They have killed the Democratic Party, and politically cut their own throats—committed, in fact, political suicide. * * * How can any man, and especially any honest Democrat, cast a vote for a man who is only notorious for his erratic and unsteady course as a politician, and who would not have ventured that old white coat which he has worn for the past forty years, and the hide it covered, within range of a rebel rifle for the honors of the Presidency ten times conferred? We can all remember the thrill of pleasure the country felt when Grant defeated the enemy at Fort Donelson, at Shiloh, at Vicksburg, and finally when he bagged Lee and his army at Appomattox. The country owes him a debt of gratitude for his brilliant deeds, which they will pay as surely as they paid similar debts to Washington, to Monroe, to Jackson, to Harrison, to Taylor, and which is due to eminent patriotism and mighty deeds of valor. I therefore trust that the Green Mountain State will roll up such a majority for the regular nominee at the coming election as to be a standing caution to trading politicians and political knaves, and especially to the quack doctor of Chappaqua, who has shown himself capable of any act that will defeat Grant."

"Reformed" Tammany.

The Tribune boasts that "Tammany supports Greeley," but says that it is a reformed Tammany. For the first time since the boast was made, we have an opportunity to see what kind of reformers came to the front in the purified Tammany. Its delegates to the State Convention were elected Friday night, and among the list of forty-two names we find the following specimen "reformers:" John Fox, Alderman Billy Walsh, of the Second Ward; "Denny" Burns, of the Sixth, one of Tweed's constant Assemblymen; "Jimmy" Hays, of the Fourteenth Ward; E. J. Shandley, Police Justice and member of the American Club; E. R. Mead, Ring reporter; Timothy J. Campbell, the notorious Ring member of the Assembly; Jacob Seebacker, John Scott, a Ring Police Justice and Tweed's intimate friend; John Morrissey, Henry Woltman, another Ring Ex-Assemblyman; Thomas J. Creamer, Ex-Ring Senator and present Tax Commissioner; Ring Alderman Richard Croker, B. F. Fairchild, Ring auctioneer; Henry W. Genet, indicted Ring Senator; Edward Schlichting, John Galvin, Anthony Eickoff, Nicholas Seger, Richard Flanagan, Oliver Charlick, Matthew T. Brennan, and others. Every one of these men was a prominent Tammany man in its days of prosperous corruption, though some of them occasionally rebelled when they did not get enough "pap." Out of the whole forty-two delegates and alternates, James C. Spencer, Richard Schell, Samuel J. Tilden, Alfred T. Ackert, Wm. C. Conner, John Kelly and Horace F. Clark are the only ones who are creditably known to the public, and some of these have benefited by Ring influences. Even of these only Mr. Tilden, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Conner are delegates, the others being merely alternates. The truth is that the Tammany machine is the same thing that it was in Ring days. Some new figure-heads have been set up as Sachems, but when it comes to making nominations or doing any political work or exercising political control, the same old corrupt gang turns up, and they go for Greeley as naturally as vultures do for carrion.

Another Leading Minnesota Democrat for Grant.

Hon. Henry M. Rice, who has been well known for years as an influential Democrat of Minnesota, and who was one of the first two Senators of that State in the Congress of the United States, refuses to support Greeley and has declared for Grant. The Hudson (Minn.) Star & Times explains his position thus: "He takes the stand not as a politician but as a purely business matter. He declares that he has no confidence in Mr. Greeley's financial ability, that the attempt to carry out Greeley's crazy theory of a violent resumption of specie payment would be utterly disastrous to the material interests of the country, and that, if only to protect his own property and business, he is constrained to oppose Greeley's election. On the contrary, Grant's administration of the finances he commends as safe and successful, and he realizes that the country demands that the same policy be continued for another term."

Greeley to Secure for the South the Removal of Negro Suffrage.

The Richmond (Va.) Enquirer of Wednesday speaks boldly. It characterizes negro suffrage as "the sum of all the woes and misfortunes of the South—the incurable cancer which is eating out its young life, and for which there is no remedy, which cannot even be cut out;" and it says: "How are we to get rid of this noxious plant—who is to lay the ax to the root? Our answer is, Mr. Greeley. He understands the disease thoroughly, and we must look to him and to Mr. Sumner to cure us. They ought to do it, and will, no doubt, when placed in power. They are wise men—or at least have a reputation for wisdom—and must see that where two races dwell together in the same community, one of which is acknowledged to be inferior, society cannot be in a healthy condition so long as the inferior rules and dominates over the superior. They must see that the evils of universal suffrage are radical, and that there can be no peace save by a removal of the cause of war. The ballot in the hands of a low, ignorant negro, who is ordered to use it by a brutal, self-seeking, thieving white man, is worse than the musket in the hands of a soldier under the orders of a besotted and cruel tyrant. This is no fancy. It is a fact, true, pure and naked. And now let us ask if there is any reason to hope for the slightest amelioration of this condition of things? Will the election of Mr. Greeley inaugurate measures for our rescue? We answer that there is a gleam of hope, and that his election will give us the means of escape from a portion of our ills. We can at least through him secure the control of the Federal offices, and of the army and navy, and these can all be used for the restoration of the white race to power in the South—even in South Carolina and Louisiana. The superiority of the intelligence, wealth and blood of the white race will make itself felt, and, despite of numbers, the people will recover some portion of their liberties and prerogatives."

Northern Illinois True.

The self-styled "Liberals" have counted much upon Northern Illinois. That they have reckoned without their host is shown by the Chicago Evening Journal, which says: "Gov. Oglesby, who is now canvassing that section, which is as full of earnest, intelligent Republicans as a well-managed orchard is of good fruit, expresses the opinion, after a careful scrutiny of the situation, that the Greeley vote in Northern Illinois will not be as large as was Seymour's vote in 1868. This coincides with our private advices from all the Republican strongholds. Northern Illinois, which has from the very outset of the great contest for human rights, and national justice and honor, been strongly Republican, will maintain its political integrity in this momentous campaign of 1872."

Further About Illinois.

One of the leading Republicans of Illinois sends cheering intelligence respecting that State in a letter recently received in Washing. He writes: "The political sky is brightening, and we are gaining ground every day. Many of the original Greeley men are coming back to the Republican fold. No doubt but that the State will give Grant 30,000 or 40,000 majority." The opinion is also expressed that Indiana will stand true for freedom and good government in November.

St. Lawrence County Nominations.

The Republican Convention for St. Lawrence County was held at Canton, Wednesday, Aug. 28, with full delegations present from every town and ward. The following nominations were made: Harvey N. Redway, for County Treasurer; John R. Brinckerhoff, for District Attorney; David Fields, for Superintendent of the Poor; Silas Baldwin and William P. Smith, for Justices of the Sessions; E. H. Neary, Special County Judge; C. B. Fisher, Coroner.

The Democratic Tribune.

The Boston Transcript explains the glee which the Tribune shows in the support of the Democratic cause: "Whitelaw Reid, the present manager of the New-York Tribune since that sheet, which is not an organ, was suddenly by a cruel dispensation deprived of the services of its founder, was a Buchanan-and-McClellan Democrat and an apologist of Andrew Johnson."

Greeley's Friends Deserting Him.

In a postscript to a business letter from Milan, Ohio, to the Cleveland Leader, the writer says that he has just returned from a ten weeks' trip in five States, West and North, that he finds the Greeley stock going down daily, and that there is no enthusiasm in the Western Democracy. It is the same everywhere.

Minor Notes.

The Madison (Ga.) Bulletin, which has had the names of Greeley and Brown at its head, hauls them down and puts up Charles O'Conor, for President, and J. Proctor Knott, for Vice-President....The Columbia Phœnix beseeches the Democrats of South Carolina not to commit themselves at present to either of the tickets for State officers nominated by the Republicans. ....The Greeleyites of the First District of Maryland have nominated Judge Richard B. Carmichael, of Queen Anne's County, for Congress. If we recollect aright, he was imprisoned for disloyalty during the war....The City of Wilmington, Del., elects on Tuesday next, Sept. 3, a Mayor to serve three years, and other city officers. Capt. Edward J. Dougherty is the Republican candidate for Mayor....The Republicans of the Third District of Arkansas have nominated Hon. W. W. Wilshire for Congress. He was Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court of the State from the time of reconstruction until about a year ago, when he resigned....Hon. John H. Ketcham, of the Thirteenth District, announced, in the Republican Convention at Poughkeepsie, on Thursday, that this would be the last time he would take the Congressional nomination....The Republican Convention for the nomination of a candidate for Congress in the Thirty-second District of this State, is to be held in Jamestown, on Tuesday, Sept. 10.

Long Island Organized for Grant and Wilson.

A Grant and Wilson Club has been formed at Jamaica, with Alexander Hagner as President and G. W. Callow as Secretary. A club has been formed in Northport, with Wm. H. Sammis, President, and Benjamin T. Robbins, Secretary. In Greenport a Grant and Wilson Club has been organized. G. S. Adams is President and Benjamin F. Wiggins, Secretary. In Orient there is a large club, with T. H. Young as President and Edwin Latham, Secretary. Wm. R. Duvall is President of the Shelter Island Club, and Henry H. Preston, Secretary and Treasurer. Nearly all the towns are now organized for the campaign.

Rockville Centre to the Front.

A Grant and Wilson club was organized, on Wednesday evening, in the Institute at Rockville Centre, Long Island, with the following officers: Robert A. Davison, President; William Allen, Secretary. The Freeport Grant and Wilson Club were present, and speeches were made by Messrs. Rhodes and Davison, which were enthusiastically received. Greeley stock is down in that locality.

Oswego County Nominations.

The Oswego County Republican Convention was held in Mexico on Wednesday, Aug. 28, and was a large and spirited gathering. W. H. Baker was chosen President, and on taking the chair made a stirring speech, which was received with enthusiasm. Nominations were then made as follows, the vote on several being close and subsequently made unanimous: For Sheriff, Col. H. H. Lyman; District-Attorney, John J. Lamoree; Treasurer, L. H. Conkling, the present incumbent; Superintendent of the Poor, Horace Scripture for the full term, and E. M. Baldwin to fill a vacancy; Special County Judge, John Preston; Special Surrogate, Wm. Kenyon; Justice of Sessions, Noel Gardner. The Oswego Commercial Advertiser thus refers to the work of the Convention: "The ticket is well made up, and is a strong one. It is early in the field, as it should be, and the time has come for every Republican to take off his coat for the ticket, and nothing but the ticket. Our file-leaders are now selected and stationed, and the Republican Party of this county is ready for the grand movement upon the lines of the enemy in November."

The Delaware State Convention.

It is expected that the attendance at the Delaware Republican State Convention to be held in Georgetown, Sussex County, on Tuesday, Sept. 10, will be very large. A mass-meeting will be held in connection with it, and among the speakers announced to be present are Gen. A. E. King, of Baltimore; Wm. Nicholson, of Philadelphia, and several prominent and eloquent members of the Republican Party in Delaware, including Jacob Moore, Wm. C. Spruance, G. V. Massey, Anthony Higgins, and Levi C. Bird.

More About the Greeley Panic.

There is not half as much "triumph in the air" for the Greeleyites as the deluded Greeleyite organs shouted over a little while ago, and they begin to realize it. Our exchanges from all sections tell the same story of the general distrust of Greeley that is manifesting itself. The Buffalo Express affords additional testimony. It says: "This is not confined to any one locality, but the feeling seems to be general and widespread. A resident of Western New-York returned yesterday from a three months' tour in nearly all the Western States, and his report is instructive. 'A month ago,' he says, 'Greeley stock stood well in the West, but now it is declining rapidly and there is no hope of his carrying a single Northern State.' The same despondency in the Greeley camp is seen and felt in our midst. One of the earliest friends of the Cincinnati nominations in this city admits that 'Greeley is losing ground,' and he declares now that 'it was a nomination that never ought to have been made.' This is the state of feeling that prevails in the opposition ranks, and it is one which is likely to increase rather than die out."

Political Conventions This Week.

Political conventions are to be held the present week as follows:

Tuesday, Sept. 3.—Straight-out Democratic National Convention, in Louisville, Ky.

Wednesday, Sept. 4.—New-York Democratic and Liberal Republican State Conventions, in Syracuse.

Wednesday—Arkansas Democratic State Convention, in Little Rock.

Wednesday—Minnesota Democratic and Liberal Republican State Conventions, in St. Paul.

Wednesday—Missouri Republican State Convention, in St. Louis.

Wednesday—Tennessee Republican State Convention, in Nashville.

THE FIRE AT SEA.

Latest Facts in Regard to the Loss of the Bienville.

Official List of the Passengers—Inverview with the Vice-President of the Pacific Mail Steam-Ship Company.

The detailed account of the burning of the Bienville cannot possibly be known for many days, and all that the TIMES can do, even with the greatest possible industry, is to lay before the public the information gleaned from the telegrams from Nassau and Havana, and from documents in the possession of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company. From these it appears but too probable that there is a very large number of missing, both of those still unheard from, who, it is hoped, were picked up by a passing vessel, and of those who will never more be heard of until the sea gives up its dead. The telegrams have made their usual havoc with names; but, amid all the "intricate impeach" of the cable, it is possible to recognize something of the persons who are mentioned. The Mrs. Brauder, who, with her three children, was drowned when the boat capsized in the lines of surf around Eleuthera Island, was Mrs. Joseph Brennan, of New-York City, who sailed for Aspinwall, in company with her husband and their four children. The father and one son, Aaron, were saved. Also, the Anna Braham, whose sufferings made her insane, and who was left behind at Eleuthera Island, was Miss Ann Broday. The passenger list we have been enabled to present by the courtesy of Mr. Bellows. It is as follows:

CABIN PASSENGERS.

William B. Wood.
Mrs. Barker.
George W. Rea.
Mrs. A. S. Barrey.
Nora Sullivan.
Henry Anthon.
A. D. Temple.
J. Cooper and sister.
G. W. Baffey.
W. S. Wilson.
E. H. Walker.
P. Stoker.
Antonio Vargas Villegas.
Thomas H. Woolwich.
Rufus Mead.
Cristobal Ortega.
William Berry.
P. Rosnds.
Mr. Chapman.
William Burroughs, Jr.

STEERAGE PASSENGERS.

Elizabeth Horrocks.
Ellen Greeley and sister.
John C. McCourt and sister.
Julius Franck.
Fanny Batty.
John Thompson.
Kate Dalton.
J. W. Barker.
Charles Lupa.
J. Brennan, wife, and four children.
W. Pool.
John Oliver.
Henry Jarf.
Mary, Margaret, and James Jones.
Bridget Hopskins.
A. Goowater.
Jno. and Bridget Kelly, and four children.
Ann Broday.
Claus Angelken and wife.
Fortunate Anriola.
A. Williams.
Charles Smith.
Patrick Daly.
John Kiely.
John Colbert.
Mrs. Amora Sullivan.
Kate Sullivan,
John Pill.
Aurelio Villegas.

From a careful comparison with the names telegraphed, we have been able to prepare the following lists of saved and missing among the passengers. The names of the saved are those telegraphed to the New-York offices of the Company by Capt. Maury:

THE SAVED.

Cabin Passengers.

Wm. B. Wood.
Mrs. Barker.
George W. Rea.
Nora Sullivan.
Henry Anthon.
Arthur D. Temple.
G. W. Barrey.
P. Stoker.
Thomas H. Woolwich.
Rufus Mead.
Cristobal Ortega.
William Berry.
Pio Rosudo.
Wm. Chapman.
William Burroughs, Jr.
Mrs. A. S. Barrey.
E. H. Walker.

Steerage Passengers.

Julius Franck.
John Thompson.
Charles Lupa.
Wm. Pool.
John Oliver.
Henry Jarf.
Margaret Jones.
A. Goowater.
Alexander Williams.
Fanny Batty.
Claus Angelken and wife.
Joseph Brennan and child Aaron.
Kate Sullivan.
Aurelio Villegas.
Patrick Daly.
Kate Dalton.
Ellen Greeley.
Margaret Greeley.

Ann Broday became insane at Eleuthera Island and could not be found when the boats pulled off. J. B. Albiston, telegraphed as among the saved, is not in the official list of passengers at the Wall-street office of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

THE MISSING.

Cabin Passengers.

W. S. Wilson.
Antonio Vargas Villegas.
J. Cooper and sister.

Steerage Passengers.

Elizabeth Horrocks.
John C. McCourt and sister.
J. W. Barker.
James Joues.
Mary Jones.
John Kelly, wife and children.
Fortunate Aureola.
Chas. Smith.
John Kelly.
John Colbert.
Mrs. Amina Sullivan.
John Pill.
Bridget Hopkins.
Mrs. Brennan and three children.

Of the crew it is necessary to point out that a vessel of the size of the Bienville would require at least sixteen seamen and fourteen firemen. Of these, only six seamen and seven firemen have been telegraphed as saved, consequently there must be ten seamen and seven firemen either altogether lost or in the boat that became separated from the rest. Besides these, there would be on such a vessel at least twelve waiters, and, presuming that the men telegraphed as second porters are waiters, then there are four waiters among the missing. There are also the cook and the third engineer still unheard of. The list of the officers and crew saved is as follows:

OFFICERS AND CREW SAVED.

Capt. Jefferson Maury.
First officer Hodges.
The purser.
The surgeon.
The second officer.
Third officer Gough.
The Chief Engineer, First and Second Engineers.
The carpenter.
— Christopher, quartermaster.
— Howland, quartermaster.
— Tighe, quartermaster.
— Logan, quartermaster.
— Griffin, seaman.
— Westfall, seaman.
— Williams, seaman.
— Barry, seaman.
— Welsh, seaman.
— McMullen, seaman.
— Grant, fireman.
— Holywood, fireman.
— Flaherty, fireman.
— Bell, fireman.
— Gough, fireman.
— Gordon, fireman.
— Stanton, fireman.
Joseph McCarthy, first porter.
Robert Crosby, first porter.
— Garrison, second porter.
— Tyler, second porter.
— Johnson, second porter.
— Shields, second porter.
— Drew, second porter.
— Stewart, second porter.
— Walters, second porter.
Robert Thompson, second porter.

Besides these were saved the steward and stewardess, the second steward, the steerage steward, the pantryman, the second and third cooks, and the second pantryman.

Summing up there are twenty-seven passengers still to be heard from, and probably ten seamen, seven firemen, four waiters, also the cook and the third engineer, and probably the forecastle and steerage cook—a total of fifty-two. Of these seven were drowned when one of the boats capsized on leaving the vessel, and nine more were drowned in the surf at Eleuthera, leaving a total of thirty-six who are in the boat not yet heard from. The chances of its capsizing are very small, for there was little wind and but a slight sea, and the chances of its being picked up are providentially very great, for the disaster took place in one of the great highways of commerce.

Interview with the Vice-President of the Pacific Mail Steam-Ship Company.

A reporter of the TIMES yesterday visited the residence of Mr. Francis G. Bellows, Vice-President of the Company. He said that he had received no further telegrams, but that probably some would arrive shortly, giving a more detailed account of the disaster. As for the statement of the Associated Press agent, he stigmatized it as utterly false. There was not a grain of powder on board that the Company had any knowledge or control of, and if there had been it would not have been stored over the boiler. He considered this assertion either a piece of malignity or of pure ignorance, which was somewhat irritating, as the Company was noted for its special care in regard to dangerous articles. There were some substances that no amount of profit would tempt them to take on board, such as nitro-glycerine or fulminating mercury, and all inflammable articles, such as petroleum, benzine, &c., were only accepted when in cases hermetically sealed.

The reporter observed that the TIMES had published the denial of Capt. Baby of the explosion story in the day's issue, and Mr. Bellows said that he had seen that and was very glad of it. He did not suppose that thinking men would be affected by it, but the general public was so uninformed on the matter that a degree of credence might be given to the telegram which it did not at all deserve. It was the practice of the Company to have five drills every voyage, and every person was taught his post in case of disaster. The appliances for putting out fire were more ample than on any other line, so much so that they were quoted as models by foreign companies. As to the origin of the fire it was impossible to say anything. At best one might hazard a conjecture that it burst out in the cargo, but this could only be a guess. Judging by what he had heard of Capt. Maury's character, he was satisfied that he had neglected no precaution to prevent a fire, and had done everything to put it out when it came. The boats were kept always provided with fresh water and biscuit, and he had no reasonable doubt that they were in good condition when they had to be used.

The reporter asked if the disaster might not have been caused by the new boilers and engines, and Mr. Bellows replied that he did not think new boilers would cause any unusual heat, but that new engines always did. However, the engines of the Bienville were not new, though her boilers were. It was more probable that the intense heat of the weather might have induced spontaneous combustion among some articles of the cargo. Whatever the cause of the conflagration, he was satisfied that investigation would prove it to have been unavoidable, and that no blame would attach either to the Captain or the officers.

Details of the Disaster—A Ter-rible Scene on Board the Steamer.

From the Times of Yesterday.

The following are our regular dispatches from Havana, giving the statement of Capt. Maury relative to the loss of his steamer:

HAVANA, Aug. 30, via KEY WEST, Fla., Aug. 31.—Capt. Jefferson Maury, of the steam-ship Bienville, arrived here this morning from Nassau, and reports the burning of the Bienville at sea.

The steam-ship Bienville left New-York on the 10th of August for Aspinwall. When in latitude 25 12, longitude 74 15, at 3¾ A. M. on the morning of the 15th inst., fire was discovered among the cargo.

Steam and water were immediately turned on, but the steam-pumps, after a few revolutions, broke down and could not be worked. Capt. Maury then ordered the hatches battened down, hoping thereby to smother the fire, and at the same time the fire-extinguishers were used between decks, and the steam kept on. The fire gained, however, rapidly, and at 6 o'clock Capt. Maury, fearing an explosion from powder stored in the hold if he remained by the ship any longer, ordered the six boats launched, and the passengers and crew began to embark.

At 7½ Capt. Maury was forced to leave the ship, being the last one on board. One of the boats was capsized after leaving the ship, and from seven to ten of the inmates, including two women, were drowned. After sunrise a fresh breeze sprung up. The capsized boat was righted and bailed out, and reached Cat Island in safety. The other boats, except one, reached Eleuthera Island, distance 150 miles from the scene of disaster. The missing boat has not been heard from, but it is supposed it was picked up by a passing vessel, as an empty boat was seen adrift near Eleuthera Island with a life preserver in it.

One of the boats, in attempting to land at Eleuthera Island, was capsized, and nine were drowned, including Mrs. Brander and her three children. At 1½ P. M. the Bienville exploded, and immediately sunk. When the fire was first discovered it was supposed to have been in the forehold, where a large quantity of powder cargo was stored, but it proved to be between the decks, over the boilers, and among the cargo.

The passengers and crew lost all their baggage, and saved nothing except the clothes they had on.

Capt. Maury reports that the people of Nassau treated the shipwrecked kindly and ministered to their wants. Vice-Consul Saunders has cared for the seamen. Anna Braham, one of the rescued, became insane, and was left at Eleuthera, because she could not be found when the party left for Nassau.

The steamer Anna and the schooner Dandy were dispatched by the American Consul to search for the missing boat.

Out of the 127 persons on board the Bienville, thirty-four are unaccounted for, including the nine lost at Eleuthera. The bodies of six persons were recovered and buried at James Point.

The schooner William McGee took thirty-four of the survivors, on the 24th, to Baltimore. A subscription was started in Nassau for the aid of the sufferers.

ANOTHER DISASTER.

Burning of the Steamer Nevada Near New-London, Conn.—Loss $75,000.

NEW-LONDON, Conn., Sept. 1.—The Philadelphia and Hartford Transportation Company's steamer Nevada, from Philadelphia Aug. 29, E. M. Grumley, master, while anchored at the mouth of the Thames River, took fire at 7:10 this P. M. and was burned to the water's edge. The cargo comprised rags, wool, merchandise, gasoline, &c. The vessel and cargo will prove a total loss. The Captain and crew escaped in boats, saving nothing. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have resulted from spontaneous combustion of the wool, which produced an explosion of the gasoline. The loss will not exceed $75,000.

THE METIS.

Yesterday's Revelations in Regard to the Sound Disaster.

Further Discovery of Dead Bodies—Forty-Eight Persons Drowned and Missing—Additional Statements of Survivors.

FROM STONINGTON.

Yesterday at the Scene of the Wreck—Summary of the Loss—Latest Details.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

STONINGTON, CONN., Sept. 1.—The advent of Sunday has brought with it a lull in the excitement which so recently ruffled the usual quiet of this peaceful New-England village. Communication with Watch Hill, the scene of the wreck, has been only occasional today, and nothing of any importance is reported beyond the facts contained in the complete dispatches sent the TIMES yesterday, to which absolutely nothing definite can now be added. The bodies at Watch Hill have not been identified, and will probably be buried to-morrow, a full description of features, clothing, &c., being taken beforehand, which might possibly lead to identification after interment. The body of the unknown man found half buried in the sand yesterday has been brought here.

THE LOSS OF LIFE.

Of the 155 individuals comprised in the list of the Metis, 132 have been accounted for as follows:

Number saved on hurricane deck	53
Saved by steamer Moccasin	42
Picked up by Stonington fishing smack	8
Otherwise reported rescued	4
Total saved	107
Dead picked up by Moccasin	17
Floated up at Watch Hill	6
Picked up dead at Newport	2
Total dead found	25

This gives 107 saved, 25 known to be dead, and 23 missing. The number of persons on board the Metis at the time of the collision, is also stated to have been 163, but the best authorities give it at 155.

FROM PROVIDENCE.

Body of Mrs. G. M. Howard Identified—Recovering Passengers' Property from the Plunderers—Condition of the Rescued.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 1.—The body of a woman which was picked up and carried to Newport has been identified as that of the wife of G. M. Howard. She was a victim of the Metis disaster, and was married but two days before. A body, supposed to be that of Mrs. Howard, had been sent to Sharon Springs, where funeral services were to be held today. Both wore rings with the same initials.

The Journal's Watch Hill dispatch to-night says: No new waifs from the Metis have been discovered. It is reported that the body of a lady has been discovered imbedded in the sand a mile east of the wreck, one foot only being visible.

James McMurchies' carpet-bag has been reclaimed from the plunderers. The jewelry case had been robbed of its contents, with the exception of eighteen gold rings. The clothing and other articles from the bodies which have not been found are in the custody of Capt. Burton, awaiting the inspection of the friends of missing passengers. Among them are a gentleman's handkerchief marked "Cunningham," and a vest marked "Thos. H. Berney and Kerney, U. S. Navy." A handkerchief marked "Henry Greene, No. 16" has also been reclaimed by a Mr. Walker. The condition of the few sufferers remaining here is favorable. Mr. McBrien is still lame, and his wife suffers from severe bruises. Mr. Nutting's child has fully recovered. All are cared for in the kindest manner by the hotel proprietors, and supplied with clothing and money by the guests. A discourse making appropriate reference to the calamity was preached in the parlor of the Larking House this morning.

Of the 155 persons on board the Metis 107 are saved, twenty-two bodies have been found, and twenty-six are still missing.

Recognition of Another of the Recovered Bodies.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 1.—One of the bodies from the Metis has been recognized as that of Abraham Doblin, of New-York, who was coming here to commence the tailoring business.

INCIDENTS OF THE WRECK.

Some of the Lost—The Scene on the Beach.

The correspondence of the Providence Journal supplies the following:

"Capt. D. T. Larkin, of the Larkin House, and formerly light-house keeper, took Capts. Jared and Alfred Crandall and two others, this morning, about 10½ o'clock, started out in a life-boat, and succeeded in picking up seventeen persons, two women and fifteen men, among whom was the steward, who were floating round on pieces of the wreck, nearly exhausted. These were taken on board the cutter. He also saw two others floating, who preferred to remain where they were and run the risk of being picked up, rather than to endanger the lives of all, and especially the women, on the already loaded boat. When Capt. Larkin got back to the hotel, he was greeted with hearty cheers and handkerchiefs, in recognition of his noble services.

Three bodies have been found. One, a very large, fleshy woman, 200 pounds or more, with a heavy head of hair, slightly gray, was taken from the wreck, and appearances indicate that she remained in her state-room, and when the wreck went to pieces she was crushed to death. She had on nothing but one boot and stocking and a cuff. In the cuff was a black jet sleeve-button. She was apparently sixty-five or seventy years old, and five feet eight inches high.

The body of a young man was washed ashore with very little life left, and he died in a very few moments. He was partially dressed, and from a card in his pocket it is thought his name is Hemmenway, and that he was connected with Bleiway's pianos. He was bruised slightly about the face. He was about thirty-eight years old, had black hair, moustache and chin whiskers, and was about five feet ten inches in height. These bodies have been taken in charge by the Coroner.

A Mrs. Jarrard, from New-York, who was moving to Providence, is here with a dead child two years old. The father had gone to Providence, and the mother started to come with the household goods and two children, the one abovenamed and an infant of seven weeks. She states that she was on a piece of the wreck with both children, but could not save them both, and the infant was lost, and this one died soon after coming ashore. There are one or two persons at the Ocean House, one of them the second steward, who were nearly killed, but are now recovering.

Mrs. Abner Peckham, widow of the late Abner Peckham, and her grandson, Willie Chase, about sixteen years of age, well known in Providence, were among the lost. Mrs. Peckham was forced from the wreck when near the shore, her dead body being carried by the waves within the reach of those on the land. Willie Chase was washed from the wreck two hours or more before by a wave which forced him into the state-room, to the door of which he was clinging when last seen. The receding wave bore his inanimate form out into the darkness and it was lost.

The scene this morning on the beach was fearful beyond description. It became known about 7 o'clock that the steamer had sunk, or was blown up, and that persons were in the water drowning. Everybody rushed to the beach, very many not dressed, stopping only to put on sufficient clothes for covering. The deck of the steamer could be seen, then about a mile out, covered with men, women and children, floating on the water like a piece of paper, and as flexible, moving up and down on the waves, now one portion out of sight and now another, as one of the spectators said, like a flock of birds on a thin, wavering cake of ice, apparently ready to break in pieces at any moment and with the surf beating over the whole. Near it was a bale of cotton, with two men on it drifting into the surf. The men on shore made preparations for their rescue. Two ropes were organised; to one was tied Capt. Josiah Clarke, and to the other Mr. Russell Bunce, while ten or fifteen men manned each. Hardly had these preparations been completed, when the bale of cotton came ashore, and two men—one white and one colored—were saved. A wave broke over the wreck now near shore, washing off two or three persons. These were caught by the men on the lines and rushed through the surf to the shore, taken care of by the ladies and conveyed to the hotels and houses. Several were saved in this way. When the wreck got to the breakers and went to pieces, about 9 o'clock, and men, women and children, pieces of wreck of all shapes and sizes were in one surging mass, drifted in and out by the surf, which seemed to enjoy the cruel sport, the men on the lines worked bravely in trying to save the sufferers at the risk of their own lives. It is estimated that all but one or two on this raft were saved. About this time there was a life-boat containing eleven coming into the breakers. Signals were made to the people on board to keep clear of the wreck, which was successfully done. The first breaker they cleared safely, the second landed them on the beach, and the third tripped the boat over. Three passengers got caught under the boat and are supposed to have been lost, and the remainder were saved."

STATEMENT OF CHARLES FILLMORE.

The following narrative is given by a correspondent of the Boston Advertiser:

"Charles Fillmore, a Nova Scotian, who was in the cook's galley, went out to see what caused the shock, but the watchman told him that there was nothing the matter, and he went back to the galley. Shortly after it was discovered, by whom I cannot ascertain, that the steamer was leaking and fast sinking. Capt. Hull and Capt. Burton aroused the passengers as fast as they could, told them the vessel was sinking, and ordered them to put on their life-preservers, at the same time calling on the hands to pass them out. Fillmore noticed that the vessel was sinking, and went on deck, remarking as he did so that between decks was clear. He noticed no great confusion, but saw some persons attempting to let down a boat, and helped them. He saw no one give any orders, and does not know whether the boat was in charge of any one or not. Several jumped into the boat as soon as she touched the water—about twenty, Fillmore thinks—and a wave took it, capsizing it at once. Of the twenty persons in it, he could see but nine, when they again reached the boat, which was full of water. No one knows where the others are—whether they were all lost, whether some of them were among those who were picked up on spars or bales of cotton. Meanwhile, on the fated steamer, which was rapidly sinking, there seemed to be none of the hurry one might expect of people suddenly aroused from sleep. The passengers seemed dazed or stupid, and failed to comprehend the impending danger. The officers and clerk of the boat seemed as cool as if the land was in sight, instead of six miles distant. But as far as can be ascertained they paid much greater attention to getting the life-preservers ready than to looking after the boat. I have already spoken of the disaster to one boat. James T. Jackson, who was detailed to go in the life-boat, reports that it was lowered away safely with twenty-three passengers, many of them ladies, only three of whom had life-preservers. A single wave of the heavy sea struck it, capsized it, and twelve of the twenty-three never reached the boat again. Three of the firemen stole one of the boats, and were off with it before any one claimed it. By the time that the life-preservers had been distributed some passengers who came out of their berths to see what had happened, on returning found their life-preservers gone. All the boats had left the wreck, and at least fifty, one-third of the whole number of souls on board, found themselves in the midst of the gale in the hurricane-deck of the steamer, which was slowly sinking beneath the waves, and no land within six miles. Within less than three-quarters of an hour from the time she was first struck, she sank in deep water, and the hurricane-deck, crowded with men, women and children, floated off. Just as he reached the upper deck, having found his life-preserver stolen from his state-room, Mr. A. S. Gallup saw the last boat pulling off. He jumped into it, and that too, turned over. There were nine persons in it when it was lowered; but five appeared after she capsized. This boat drifted about for most four days, after passing by several vessels, which failed to hear their call, was picked up by Capt. George A. Harrison's fishing smack, of New-London. The other persons in it were the second mate and two deck-hands. The hurricane deck was borne down almost to the water's edge, but it is believed that none were washed off. The tide had turned about two hours before the accident, but the unfortunates on the raft knew not whither they were drifting until daylight. The wind continued, and the rain fell unceasingly, but they were nevertheless slowly, but surely, drifted toward land. The boat in which Fillmore and eight others were was hardly a more desirable hope for safety. After it had been capsized and he with others thrown out, he swam for fifteen minutes before he reached it, and then it was full of water. Bailing was in vain, for every sea would fill it full. They could do nothing with their oars, so they floated with the deck. Some in despair at finding no life-preservers, and some who had them, threw overboard spars, boxes and bales of cotton, and clung to them with all the desperation of drowning men. About 7 o'clock the wreck was discovered from the Larkin House, and a life-boat put out. At 7¾ the deck was thrown on shore and soon smashed in a thousand pieces by the surf which was rolling in in waves from ten to twenty feet high. It is believed that all on the deck were saved. The life-boat picked up seventeen, fifteen of whom were living. They were in the last stages of exhaustion, and one or two died after reaching the shore, while others are in a precarious situation. The boat in one case, after taking all it could carry, had to leave until the next trip three men clinging to one spar. When it returned one was dead, and yet in that very boat was a man who growled and talked because he could not be landed at a particular spot on the beach. One may easily imagine the disgust with which the oarsmen threatened to put him back if he did not keep quiet. Charles Young, a jewelry-dealer of Attleborough, clung to a cotton bale until his stiffened fingers refused to hold on any longer, and was rescued supporting himself by his teeth. He now lies sleeping at the Ocean House, and the doctors dare not say that he will awake again. Edwin Turner and Cyrus Butler, of Providence, swam ashore. Never did a merciful Providence seem more clearly manifested than in the saving of so many lives from the steamer sunk so far from the shore. Before the last person were picked up the tide had turned, the wind had veered round to the northwest, and the last persons saved were rescued as they had began to drift out to sea. The revenue cutter Moccasin, Capt. Ritchie, and the yacht Josie, Capt. Lopez, with a large crew, saved all that could be seen. By noon all had been done that could be done towards saving life."

Another Collision on the Sound—Narrow Escape of the Steamer Narragansett.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 1.—The steamer Narragansett, from New-York for Stonington, collided with an unknown schooner in the Sound on Saturday night at about 11 o'clock. The engines of the steamer had been reversed, and hence the shock did but slight injury. The Captain of the steamer charges the schooner with suddenly and improperly changing her course.

SEPTEMBER MAGAZINES.

—In Scribner's, Edward King has an illustrated article headed "In and About Paris." The writer has remarkable descriptive powers, and from his acquaintance with the city, the reader who accompanies him on his tour will learn many things that a life-long dweller there might be pardoned for not knowing The next article is a thoughtful essay on "Frederick Denison Maurice," by E. Mulford There is a readable paper on "Sculpture," with numerous illustrations, taken from Viardot's work on Les Merveilles de la Sculpture. The account is principally confined to works by the ancient Greek artists, and so far as it goes is very interesting. "English Singing Birds in Florence" will prove highly entertaining to all lovers of the works of Frederick Tennyson, Lever the Brownings and the Trollopes. Pleasant little anecdotes are given of them and of their curious semi-exile life, and the manner in which the spiritualist Hume worked upon their imaginations. "Vater's Vacation" is a clever sketch of holidays past on the sea-shore, written by Hiram Rich. "One Day at Arle," by Fannie E. Hodgson, is a study from life, as tender and sympathetic as it is delicate. Adeline Trafton's story, "After the Darkness, Light," is, on the other hand, made morbid and unnatural by an excessive use of sentiments, which, if better husbanded, would have made a delightful tale. The remaining papers are "Ascent of Gray's Peak," by E. J. Mallett; "A Visit to the Birthplace of Whittier," by Charlotte L. Forten; "Found Wanting," (poem,) by Kate Putnam Osgood; "A Ballad of the Gold Country," by H. H.; "My Life," (poem,) by Mary S. Ritter; "At His Gates," (serial,) by Mrs. Oliphant,and the usual sketches in "The Old Cabinet," "Home and Society," &c.

—The Atlantic opens with a dull and prosy article by Edward H. House, entitled "A Day in a Japanese Theatre." A very able and important paper is the one headed "A Western View of Inter-State Transportation," by Charles Seymour. The writer of this shows very clearly the manner in which the great railroad monopolies are thwarting the natural increasing wealth throughout the West, and suggests methods by which this may be in part corrected. He shows how, by the expenditure of sums of money, inconsiderable in view of the result obtained, an immense system of river and canal navigation can be inaugurated, and the cost of transportation be reduced in the latter case to a third and in the former to a tenth of the amounts now exacted by the railroads. He thinks that a canal of 1,400 miles in length, between Lake Superior and the Columbia River, will soon be considered necessary. James Parton treats in this number of "Thomas Jefferson as a Sore-head," and in spite of the anachronism of the title, the article is one of the most readable of the series. "The Favorite of the Harem," by Mrs. Leonowens, is an Eastern love-story, having apparently a strong basis of truth. In the poem which closes the eleventh essay of "The Poet at the Breakfast Table," Dr. Holmes concentrates in a few lines some of the deepest thoughts that are at present in the minds of all thinking men. There are two other poems of merit; one a lively little social study called "Half an Hour Before Supper," by Bret Harte, and the other the poetical version of an actual shipwreck and a daring rescue, by John G. Whittier.

— Harper's opens with a beautifully-illustrated paper on Venice, by L. H. Morgan. The writer's descriptions are exceeding realistic, and from them a very perfect idea may be obtained of this charming city. Few of its old-time attractions have suffered from the ravages of decay, and to the lover of mediæval architecture the place is a perfect mine of riches. The fourth of the series of Emilio Castelar's essays on "The Republican Movement in Europe" is given in this number. The subject treated is the growth of liberal sentiments among the Slavonic race. "Political Characteristics of the Modern Greeks" is the name of a paper by Hon. Charles K. Tuckerman, which exhibits a very intimate acquaintance with the intricate phases of Greek national politics. The writer finds many sources for encouragement in the present condition of Greece, and shows how many of the evils under which she suffers have been exaggerated. America is not wholly neglected, for we have a sketch of a trip through the lakes from Buffalo to Chicago, called "Round by Propeller," by Constance Fenimore Woolson. This lady's name is a new one to magazine readers, but the few articles of her's which we have seen during the last three or four months have been so fresh and so purely American in their character, that we feel certain that she will soon be numbered among our most popular writers. R. H. Stoddard furnishes a brief biographical account of Edgar Allen Poe. The history of Poe's life has been very insufficiently treated by previous writers, though the mystery that has surrounded the first part of it may in some way account for this. Mr. Stoddard has unveiled this as far as possible; and in what he says of the later days of his life, while strictly adhering to facts, he shows a friendly charity for those personal sins which all must admit were, in the case of Poe, "pangs of nature." "Recollections of an Old Stager" offer a clear picture of political life in the past, which might be studied to advantage by statesmen of the present day. "Mother Michaud" is the title of a poem by Kate Putnam Osgood, the sad sweetness of which will attract many readers. Reade's serial, "A Simpleton," is developing itself well; and there are also a number of entertaining sketches of a lighter order.

—In the Galaxy, Justin McCarthy has taken advantage of Mr. John Anthony Froude's promised visit to this country to present a detailed account of his works and of the principal events of his life. "Desultory Sketches," by T. N. P., is so excessively chaotic that it might, without excuse, have been transferred to the "Nebulæ" department of the Galaxy. It contains, however, a number of really humorous anecdotes and clever pen-pictures of prominent politicians of the last generation. Some of the stories told of John Van Buren are particularly good. In the five chapters given of "The Eustace Diamonds," Anthony Trollope gives the reader a description of the manner in which the detectives attached to the London police force "work up" their cases. "Fire-works," by Annie T. Howells, and "Jim Smith," by W. M. Alden, are light, readable stories, happily conceived and executed.

—The present number of the Popular Science Monthly is a very strong one. Herbert Spencer furnishes an additional essay to his series on the "Study of Sociology." He shows in it the method by which society is organized, and how, by understanding the character of individuals, predictions may be made concerning their aggregation into races and nations. "Clever Fishes," by Francis Francis, is both an instructive and an amusing article. It is, indeed, curious to learn how these fish have anticipated us in the use of implements of destruction, and according to Mr. Francis we may yet learn something from them. In the "Past and Future of Niagara," by Prof. W. D. Gunning, we are told that this magnificent water-fall is to degenerate into a series of wretched little cascades. Yet tourists need not hurry themselves to visit the place before the change, as at least calculation 80,000 years must pass before it takes place. The present rate of retrogression is estimated to be about six inches per annum. Dr. W. B. Carpenter, in his lecture (republished) on "The Unconscious Action of the Brain," shows how much more active and powerful it may be in this state than when cumbered by the direction and supervision of the phenomenon of consciousness. "The Enemies We Import," by Prof. Samuel Lockwood, is a clear statement of the terrible havoc made by insects among the agricultural production of our country, the same little pests being imported even in the foreign seeds, slips,and plants which the Government, for the best possible purposes, have introduced into the country. The remaining articles are all well written, and several of them very timely.

—The Aldine contains a fine full-page illustration of "Wood Ducks," drawn by John S. Davis. The work is very cleverly done, and exceedingly accurate in detail. There are two companion pictures, "Playing Sick" and "Who Said Rats!" by A. H. Thayer, which are full of line and humor. "Little Emily," by John S. Davis, is a charming sketch, and the remaining pictures are fairly drawn. The literary department is interesting, containing articles by Carolilae Cheesebro, Henry Richards, C. D. Shanley, A. L. Noble, S. E. Corkran, Mary A. Humphrey, G. Burting, and several pleasant comments by Mr. Stoddard, the editor.

—The Catholic World has an able paper on "Intellectual Centres," which, after gifting Europe with Geneva, Rome, Munich, Paris and Oxford, centres the intelligence of the United States in Boston, a disposition which the inhabitants of that city will be far more likely to indorse than will New-Yorkers. The present number of this monthly contains several interesting sketches of Europe and European life; among these are "The Spaniards at Home," written by one who must certainly have been brought into close contact with them; "Aix-la-Chapelle," a delightful historical account of Charlemagne's old capital, and "Orleans and its Clergy." "Use and Abuse of the Stage" is a timely article, in which the writer suggests that the drama might be now used, as among the ancient Greeks, as a means for remedying many of our social and political evils. "On the Misty Mountain" is concluded.

—The two illustrated articles in Lippincott's, are "Through William Penn's Low Counties" and "Wanderings in Palestine," the former being a pleasant sketch of the country lying to the southward of Philadelphia, and of the "park city" of Ridley, and the latter the details of a trip from Jerusalem to the Jordan, made by a well-known traveler who assumed for the occasion the Oriental costume. "Reform on Two Stools," is a very able review of the hopes and disappointments of the Reformers who met in Cincinnati a few months ago. The writer is evidently one of the few sincere men who went there, and his estimate of Greeley, Schurz and Sumner, as Reformers, is as evidently just as it is intensely powerful. We republished a great part of this article on Sunday last. "E. S." has been writing a series of capital articles on the private art galleries of Philadelphia, displaying great technical knowledge and a wonderfully-delicate imagination. The present one is upon the gallery of Col. Thomas A. Scott, the great Railway King. Elizabeth T. Bigelow has translated one of the most charming of Victorien Sardou's short stories, called "The Black Pearl." "No. 25," by Sara Conant, which is the only other romance in the number, suffers severely from contrast with the foregoing, and thereby loses the very little merit it might otherwise possess. There are many grounds for improvement in our present mode of hotel-keeping, and Ralph Keeler, in a humorous article, entitled "The Great American Hotel," has touched upon some of them, though suggesting no remedy other than a possible overthrow of the entire system. Mrs. Wister has given a very entertaining account of England in "A Summer between the Four Seas." Two rather ordinary poems and a readable installment of "Our Monthly Gossip" completes the list of contents.

OUR SHIPPING INTERESTS.

Interesting Facts About American Tonnage—Statistics for Twelve Years—Iron Ship-Building and its Influence.

Much has been said and written on the subject of the decay of our shipping, which, once so flourishing, has dwindled down to a comparative cipher. What is the cause of this state of affairs, is a question often asked but seldom answered. The war may be said to have been the chief disorganizer of our merchant marine, thanks to the Alabama, Florida and Shenandoah, which drove American bottoms into adopting foreign register, to escape piratical extortions or destruction.

Official tables which we herewith annex will demonstrate at a glance the comparative and steady decrease of American tonnage, and the immense gain of foreign tonnage, within a period of ten short years. In 1860, the American tonnage entered at this port was 1,487,539, against 587,061, or about sixty-seven and a half per cent.; while the clearance of foreign vessels was 673,793, against 1,297,175, or about forty-eight per cent. of all. Our tonnage did not materially drop off until 1863, when the foreign entries ran up to 1,416,634, against American entries of 986,713, which has kept on increasing until the former has reached the enormous figures of 2,800,832 tons during the year 1871. The following table for twelve years and six months will be found instructive:

Year.	Entered. American Vessels from Foreign Ports. Tonnage.	Cleared. American Vessels from Foreign Ports. Tonnage.	Entered. Foreign Vessels from Foreign Ports. Tonnage.	Cleared. Foreign Vessels from Foreign Ports. Tonnage.
1860	1,487,539	1,297,175	587,061	673,793
1861	1,613,958	1,494,882	865,446	894,051
1862	1,281,732	1,072,989	1,070,491	1,126,126
1863	986,713	776,613	1,415,634	1,614,991
1864	845,172	772,136	1,416,734	1,587,308
1865	774,458	664,196	1,473,815	1,495,220
1866	990,116	799,036	1,776,318	1,813,129
1867	1,027,708	910,013	1,763,772	1,812,609
1868	1,033,396	852,695	1,887,591	1,899,315
1869	1,043,382	874,166	2,225,137	2,229,209
1870	897,128	831,872	2,023,694	2,195,044
1871	1,039,404	875,177	2,800,832	2,707,741
1872*	610,239	458,301	1,788,317	1,770,144

*The statement for 1872 is only up to July 31 inclusive.

The commencement of iron ship-building in England and on the Clyde, which in a very short period has superseded our wooden vessels, was another terrible blow to American tonnage. Inasmuch as iron ships rate A No. 1 for a term of twenty years, while wooden vessels maintain this rating only five or six years, it is to be noted that a large saving of marine and fire insurance offers inducements sufficient to introduce such ships as are the least expensive or produce the most revenue. The decay of the famous Collins line of European steam-ships, once the pride and boast of every American, was the first sign of the destruction of American tonnage. Devoted only to carrying first-class passengers, the revenue was by no means sufficient to keep them afloat, and the refusal of Congress to grant a reasonable subsidy at once banished these noble ships from the ocean.

The English and other lines discarded their wooden hulls and side-wheelers, and adopted the iron-compartment ships, which not only carry increased freight and passengers, but are more buoyant and safer ships. Beside this, the foreign vessels engaged at the same time in the carriage of steerage as well as cabin passengers, and it is no uncommon occurrence to see one of these ships enter the harbor with a roster of 900 to 1,500 steerage and 100 to 300 cabin passengers.

The immense receipts of, and enormous profits made by the various companies, show very plainly the rapid increase of floating caravanseries placed upon their lines at short intervals to accomodate the increasing traffic.

The once popular Williams & Guion line of American packet ships is now entirely out of existence. In their stead the owners, all of them Americans, are compelled to run their new line of fine steamers under the English flag.

The cost of building ships in this country has the greatest bearing upon the decay of American tonnage. While a vessel like the Wyoming, of the last-mentioned line, cost to construct and fit up in the most luxuriant manner a trifle over $500,000 in Great Britain, the same ship, to build in the United States, would entail an expenditure of $900,000 or more. Again, the Custom-house duties on ship-building materials was very large. This has since been abolished, and on all such materials the Government allows a rebate under certain restrictions, in the hope or benefiting the ship-building trade. It is thus hoped that the duty on iron rise in iron on the other side will be conducive to infuse some life and activity into our shipping interest. That we are capable of building as fine ships in this country as the Lairds and others in Europe has been amply demonstrated by the magnificent iron steamer just completed at Philadelphia. If our mechanics will only abstain from harassing labor strikes, and take a little American pride in the re-establishment of our ocean traffic, there need be no further apprehension that our tonnage will remain as it is, but show a very large increase over foreign bottoms in a very few years.

Remarkable Solar Phenomenon.

A telegram from Lexington, Ky., to the Cincinnati Commercial, under date of Aug. 30, makes the following statement: "A solar phenomenon of wondrous magnificence was witnessed here today. Shortly after 12 o'clock a thin, hazy halo was observed about the sun, which was shining in a cloudless sky. Gradually this halo assumed a bright yellow tint, then, one after another, five rainbow-hued circles enveloped themselves around the sun. Soon myriads of glittering globes,apparently half an inch in diameter,were ejected from the various rings. Some came into view slowly and sailed southward in a straight line, while others went forth at a tangent, like the balls of a Roman candle. All of them gleamed with an intense white light, which grew less intense as they approached the earth, and totally disappeared at apparently the height of half a mile. The display lasted over two hours, and was witnessed by every person in the city, and created great alarm among the ignorant and superstitious. The only other noticeable phenomenon was a marked reduction of temperature."

GEORGIA.

The State Convention and its Work—Republican Divisions all Healed—The Nomination for Governor—Survey of the Field—Prospects of Success.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ATLANTA, Ga., Friday, Aug. 23, 1872.

The Republican State Convention which concluded its labors here on the evening of the 21st, was, in many respects, the most important and gratifying action of the party in Georgia since its organization in 1867. Nearly all the counties in the State were represented, there being 278 delegates present; and, in the personnel and character of the members, it was a decided improvement upon all former Conventions of the party in the State. It comprised some of the very ablest and best men in Georgia—most of whom were either native-born Southern men, or who had acquired a permanent residence and citizenship before or immediately after the close of the war. Indeed, there were very few, if any, of that class whom the Greeleyites have been in the habit of denominating "carpet-baggers." The colored members of the party were either represented by native white Republicans whose personal character stands wholly unchallenged, or by colored delegates distinguished for their intelligence, prudence, and sagacity. It is still the subject of remark here, even in Democratic circles, that the character of this Convention was such as "would do honor to any political party."

The Convention was organized with Mr. John M. Quarles, a colored man of superior intelligence and personal character, as temporary Chairman. He had been a member of the State Constitutional Convention, and subsequently of the Legislature. With this experience, and by close study and observation, he had acquired a fair knowledge of parliamentary usage, and presided in a manner so as to elicit the commendation even of those of the opposite party, who profess to believe "the nigger incapable of a high state of mental culture." One incident connected with this novelty in the constitution of public assemblies in Georgia, deserves mention. Mr. Quarles' old master, who raised him, and who owned him up to the time of emancipation, was present; and, although heretofore "Democratic" in his party affiliations, could not suppress his demonstrations of approval and his pride in "my boy," as he sat in the outskirts of the assembly and noted the readiness, accuracy and modest decorum with which the temporary Chairman presided. Four years ago, no Georgia planter who valued his social position, would have dared to make such demonstrations of approval and gratification, even had the opportunity been offered.

Under the permanent organization, Hon. John S. Bigby, Representative in Congress from the Fourth District, was chosen Chairman by acclamation. His opening address was an eloquent appeal for harmony, a fraternal reunion of all the former discordant elements of the party. It made a most favorable impression upon the minds of that large and respectable class of Democrats who are growing restive under the "Greeley pill" and their party lash.

Mr. Akerman, late Attorney-General of the United States, was made Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. The resolutions as reported and adopted indorse the principles of the National Republican Party,as set forth in the resolutions adopted by the Philadelphia Convention; indorsed the Administration of President Grant, and arraign the present State administration of Georgia for its proscriptive legislation, its hostility to public schools, its acts of general bad faith in financial matters, for its usurpation of power in depriving certain municipalities of local self-government, and for its general unfriendliness toward a large class of poor men and laborers, whom it seeks practically to disfranchise.

These resolutions adopted, the next business before the Convention was the election of a candidate for Governor. Three names were presented, that of Hon. Dawson A. Walker, of Whitfield; Mr. William Markham, of Fulton, and Mr. Joel Griffin, of Houston. Mr. James Atkins, of Savannah, read a letter from Mr. Markham, declining the use of his name in connection with the nomination. Mr. Griffin's name was then withdrawn at his own instance. Judge Walker, of Whitfield, was then nominated by acclamation. There was not a dissenting voice and the wildest enthusiasm prevailed. A committee waited upon Judge Walker and notified him of his nomination. He entered the hall in a few minutes amid the deafening cheers of the Convention, and in a neat and well-chosen speech accepted the position, pledging himself to unite his best efforts with those of the members of the Convention to make the nomination a success at the ensuing election in October. While the other Committees charged with the nomination of electors were out, the Convention was entertained by Hon. Amos T. Akerman in one of his happiest and most telling efforts.

After the selection of an electoral ticket, composed, by the way, of Southern white men exclusively who know and understand the people here, and which represents some of the very first political talent in the South, the Convention adjourned until 8½ P. M., when it again assembled to listen to an address by Hon. Horace Maynard, of Tennessee. Notwithstanding the fact that Gen. Gordon (Greeley Democrat) had been advertised to speak in another part of the city, and the streets had been paraded for two hours with music and by drummers for the Greeley meeting, appointed for the same hour, the crowd which had assembled to hear Mr. Maynard was so great that the hall—the largest in the city—could not afford accommodations to all. Large numbers were excluded for want of room. Most of these were Democrats, and some who were not "straight," but of the quasi Greeley order, were present. Mr. Maynard occupied the stand about an hour and a-half, in the delivery of one of the most logical and convincing, and at the same time one of the most scholarly and eloquent political addresses ever listened to by a Southern audience. Perhaps fully one-half of the audience present were former Democrats, "straight" Democrats, or quasi Greeley Democrats, besides the usual proportion of old-line Whigs and Union men. It was an intelligent and cultivated audience, and the marked attention and frequent applause which the distinguished speaker elicited, evinced the power and effect of his words even upon those who still stand aloof from the party he represents. To illustrate the impression made upon the popular mind here by Mr. Maynard's address, as also showing the current of a public sentiment rapidly forming here, I will reproduce the following paragraphs from one of the Democratic papers here which appeared on the morning of the 22d—the morning after the speaking:

Gen. Gordon's address last night was listened to by a large audience—among whom were many ladies. He advocated Greeley as a choice of very great and dreadful evils; never did he before speak under so much hampering restraint, so much embarrassment, and with so little effect upon his audience.

Here is the other, taken from the same article:

"Hon. Horace Maynard's address, last night, was listened to by a very large assemblage of white and black, and was most vehemently applauded."

When we take into account the fact that the paper making this report is one of the most popular, and the odds to the absent, of the Democratic organs in the State, the intelligent reader can have no difficulty in seeing which way the wind is blowing, even in Georgia!

But what of success at the election? With this question let us deal candidly. If there is much to stimulate hope, there is likewise some what to create doubt. The Republican candidate for Governor is not only a man of acknowledged talent and position, but is likewise personally very popular, especially in the northern and middle counties (the white districts) of the State, where the bulk of the Democratic strength has been heretofore. He is a native of East Tennessee, but has been a citizen of Georgia since early manhood, and has filled some of the highest judicial positions in the State. He is also a man of unimpeachable personal character, and was, of all men, most dreaded by the opposition. This was their admission before his nomination; and now that he is the Republican standard-bearer, the Democrats confess that "nothing can be said against him, except that he is a Grant radical!" Our candidate then inspires hope of success.

Another circumstance in our favor is the hopeless division in the Democratic Party in the State. Smith, the Greeleyite candidate, has a short official record that is peculiarly unfortunate for his party. It is vulnerable at almost every point. A man of very moderate capacity, he is the very embodiment of the hatreds and prejudices of the past, representing just as much of slavery and of the late Southern Confederacy as is possible under the circumstances. Moreover, he is unpopular even with his own party. A Democrat told me yesterday that he knew of three men in one judicial district who had been each promised the same office in case of Smith's re-election! Similar stories are rife in other districts.

The recent oppressive and unjust legislation, under the Democratic administration, will, for the first time, put the Republicans on the aggressive. A general feeling on the part of the young men of the State to get rid of old Democratic leaders and their tools, and to cease obedience to party lash, is another indication in our favor. As for the colored people, they will, if permitted, vote in a body for the Republican candidates. But the late Election law, passed by a Democratic Legislature, was designed to work, and may, possibly, compass, their disfranchisement, especially in the State election. The law imposes the payment of back taxes for the years 1868, 1869 and 1870, annulled by the previous Legislature, as a condition to the exercise of the elective franchise, thus making it the price of the ballot in Georgia. That it was intended to disfranchise the 90,000 colored voters, or at least a large portion of them, is now admitted by the Democratic leaders themselves. Of course the law is in open conflict with the State Constitution, which provides for the payment only of "taxes for the year next preceding the election." So that, the payment of $1 poll tax for the year 1871, and a receipt therefor, will entitle the voter to his ballot. But instances are by no means rare where colored men have paid their $1 poll tax for 1871, they have been receipted for 1868, thus keeping their names off the paid tax list of 1871, or for the year "next preceding." This swindle is now being looked after by Republican committees in each county, organized for that purpose. These appoint competent men to pay over the tax and procure the proper receipt.

In furtherance of this scheme of the Democracy, looking to the disfranchisement of the colored voters at the ensuing election, the time of the State election has been changed from November to the first Wednesday in October; thus giving as little time as possible for the payment of taxes between this and the election. But it is hoped that with proper industry and efficiency the election of Walker can be assured, and this will insure the State for Grant and Wilson in November.

The Fourth-Avenue Railroad Whistles.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

We are glad that you comprehend our grievance along the line of the Fourth-avenue Railroad above Forty-second-street, and are not afraid to speak out, be the power ever so great against which you battle. I would ask again, (and I speak for many,) is there not some way that the signals to brakemen could be given without the steam-whistle? Is it necessary to ring those huge bells the whole length of the avenue, when men and flags are at every crossing? Do not the cars themselves make sufficient alarm to warn the watchmen, who are always on the lookout? And further, suppose the whistle to be indispensable, could not its tone be improved and melodiously tempered to that delicate organ, the ear? I throw out these questions to instigate more thought for the good of many. HUMANITY.

North Carolina Politics.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your exposition of that rascally job set up by Ex-Senator Doolittle, who ranted so loudly about honesty and reform in our recent State election, has had the desired effect. The mongrels have dropped the honorable gentleman's name, and the aristocracy have shaken their tablecloths more vigorously than usual whenever he chanced to dine. The negroes have gotten hold of it with their usual quickness, and are "yah-yahing" over it in memory of his solemn warnings that they had better divide their votes and reinstate him and other virtuous humbugs into power. If you have any more such facts, let us have them at an early moment.

The animus of the Kuklux came out when they thought they had carried this State. They began to insult women and children, Judges on the bench and other Republican officials indiscriminately. Now they are more quiet, but far from subdued, and will make a bold stand for recovery in November. It would be well, therefore, for the National Committee to keep an eye on this State, and send forward reinforcements promptly, if needed. I observe that the Democrats have their emissaries still in our midst, organizing and scheming for November; but, unless other developments are made, we can handle what is here now with the requisite ease and elegance demanded by the occasion.

Blumenberg, who was sent here, is a notorious perjurer, and was manipulated by the Democrats, led by Hon. D. M. Barringer, Ex-Minister to Spain, Ex Congressman, &c., without conscience or unconscionable conscience. Mr. Barringer disgraced himself, and everyone so far in a telegram to say that one Wood, from New-York, "had done his work well in the western counties. Laus Deo—praise God!" Our Democrats confess that "nothing can be said against him, except that he is a Grant radical!" Our candidate then inspires hope of success.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.
New-York City.

We beg to call the attention of Republican Committees and Clubs all over the country to the special CAMPAIGN EDITION of the NEW-YORK TIMES. It is a complete storehouse of facts for the use of Republican speakers and newspapers, presented in a readable form, and sure to attract attention and do good wherever it is circulated.

Of this edition we have already printed and sold 275,000 copies. We have a large number of orders in hand, which we shall execute as soon as possible. Republican Clubs and Secretaries should send for a specimen copy, price 2 cents.

Price $1 50 per hundred, or $15 per thousand. Single copies, 2 cents each.

Readers out of the City, desiring one or more copies, can have them mailed direct. Price 4 cents each, including postage.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

In reply to numerous correspondents, we give below a transcript from our books showing the clear weekly INCREASE in the circulation of our daily and weekly papers during the past three months. It must be distinctly understood that the figures quoted give only the actual increase, week by week, and that each week's returns are independent of the previous week's. For instance, the increase in the daily of 720 for the week ending June 1, does not include the 240 increase of May 25. Each week's returns are complete in themselves.

It is scarcely necessary to call the attention of advertisers to the advantages which the DAILY and WEEKLY TIMES offer to them. During the approaching business season, there is no paper which will go into a larger or more varied circle of readers than the TIMES. The WEEKLY is especially useful as a means of communication with readers in the interior of this and other States.

The following figures show only the ACTUAL INCREASE in the Circulation of the Daily and Weekly issues of the NEW-YORK TIMES.

CLEAR GAINS ON PREVIOUS WEEK.

There are, as will be noted, upward of fifty people still to be heard from, of the passengers and crew of the steamer Bienville. The disaster thus assumes a graver character than was at first assumed, and is, unfortunately, anything but the "hoax" which a New-York paper of yesterday was stupid enough to suppose it might be. There is this obvious contrast between the circumstances attending the loss of the Metis and that of the Bienville. In the former case, confusion, indecision, and lack of discipline were painfully apparent; in the latter, all that human energy could do appears to have been done to save the ship, and the most seaman-like promptitude and good order was observed in taking care of the lives for whose safety the Captain of the vessel was, in such a crisis, largely responsible. It seems as if an effort were being made to withhold the fullest attainable information about the true proportions of the loss which attended the wreck of the Metis. If such be the case, it is as unwise as it will be ineffectual.

Though the hot season is apparently over, there remains, as will be observed from our reports of today, plenty of work to do for the visitors under our scheme of sick relief. The fall in the thermometer will undoubtedly show its good results by another week in the diminished number of infantile sufferers, and will probably make the recovery of those under treatment more rapid than it might otherwise have been. It will be time enough, however, to conclude that the special objects of the Sick Relief Fund have been served when we find that the death-rate of the City has subsided into its normal proportions. The various district visitors under the fund have felt it incumbent on them to give, in many cases, assistance to adults in sickness or absolute want, on whom children were dependent for support. We believe that this use of the money will be approved of by all who have had any share in subscribing it.

Latest dispatches from Mexico indicate that while general confidence in the stability of the Lerdo Government is somewhat strengthened, the attitude of that Government toward the United States is not too friendly. The approval of the extraordinary course of Commissioner GUZMAN in the matter of the Mexican claims is reported to be approved, the purpose of the Government being to secure delay. Under JUAREZ diplomatic intercourse with the Mexican Republic was in the main extremely satisfactory, and it is to be hoped that no change will be forced upon this country by his successor.

In another column we give a full account of the animated canvass now being carried on by the Republicans in Maine. That State is being made by both parties a ground for an active struggle, in which the Republicans now have the advantage. The election takes place a week from today, and will be considerably influenced by the vote of Vermont to-morrow.

Vermont.

The election to take place in Vermont to-morrow will be watched with interest, as giving some indication of the strength of the Tammany coalition in the Republican Party. In the North Carolina election we had a distinct test of the progress of that coalition in the Democratic ranks, and the result was most discouraging to the Greeley leaders. It was found that the Democratic Party had made a net loss of 7,000 votes in two years. The Greeley politicians in despair cried out that this loss could and would be made up in Republican States. To-morrow will show whether or not that boast is as idle as the remainder of their vaporing.

Vermont is undeniably a Republican State, by a majority ranging from 18,000 to 32,000. The total vote of the State has not gone above 58,000 in the last fourteen years, including four Presidential elections. Certainly, if Greeleyism has any attractions for Republicans, they would make themselves felt in a State where Republicans constitute so strong a proportion of the electors. If the coalition cannot show decided gains in Republican Vermont to offset the losses in Democratic North Carolina, it might as well be given up, and have done with it. It will be shown to be a candle burning at both ends.

The average Republican majority in the eighteen elections held in Vermont within the past fourteen years has been about 22,000. This has also been the average majority in the three State elections held in the years when Presidential elections occurred. The majority in 1870 for Governor was 21,309. Mr. GREELEY'S personal organ claims that the 12,000 Democratic votes cast in 1870 will be increased by 8,000 "Liberal Republicans," leaving the Republican candidate only 25,000 votes, and a majority of only 5,000. At this rate, it calculates that the Democratic candidate will have five million votes in the Presidential election, and more than two-thirds of the Electoral College. To-morrow will show whether this is a reckoning without the host.

Meantime, it is for every genuine Republican, and for every man who believes the Government is likely to be more safely and wisely managed by Gen. GRANT than by Mr. GREELEY, and who has a vote in Vermont, to cast it to-morrow. We urge on all such, if at home or within reach of home, not to lose their vote. The Greeley Democracy will count every voter who stays away as on their side, and every show of gain they can now make will help them to rally their forces for November. We are not afraid to leave the issue to the common sense and patriotism of the people of Vermont, if they feel that the issue to-morrow is substantially the same as the issue of the Presidential election. It certainly is, and the greatest service any Vermont voter can do to his country in the next two days, is to aid in getting out the full Republican vote. We especially appeal to all Vermonters in New-York to give the few hours necessary to the performance of this duty.

The Question.

There is a question much more important than any of those which the Democratic Press, Tammany and other, has been ready to discuss so glibly. We have put it twice to the World, but although we can have disquisitions by the column on the decay of statesmanship, and on the principles laid down in JEFFERSON'S first inaugural address, and other topics which are about as fresh and as pertinent to the present canvass as Magna Charta or the Council of Trent, we have yet been unable to get a plain answer to this plain, simple, important, and at present very vital question.

There is a great outcry against centralization, and personal government, and military despotism—against which all good citizens are entreated to band themselves, and in doing so, of course, to rally round the Democratic candidate, whose election the faithful were again assured on Monday will surely be accompanied by that of "a Democratic Congress, Democratic State Governors and Legislatures, and Democratic local officers." The World may effectively and appropriately confine itself to such assurances, and to setting forth the means and methods necessary to bring about this entire turning over the Government of the country into the hands of the Democratic Party.

As to centralization, personal government, and military despotism, every person having the slightest spark of common sense knows that all the talk about them is the merest "bosh," a trick to divert attention from the real objective point of those who practice it. No man in his senses, whether Republican or Democrat, wishes our Government to be centralized, or to become despotic or personal, or to assume a form which would even foreshadow those bugbears of the Democratic Party. But there is one subject upon which the leaders of that party owe an explanation to all voters, and particularly to those members of the Republican Party whose aid they are asking toward the election of a Democratic Congress and Democratic State Governments.

It is perfectly well known that certain doctrines of the Democratic Party, on the subject of State rights, were at the bottom of the late attempt to destroy the Union, and that not the least important point gained in the dreadful struggle consequent upon that attempt was the practical suppression of those doctrines, of which the abolition of slavery itself was but a corollary. The re-establishment of slavery no sensible person would now openly advocate, any more than the centralization of the Government or a military despotism. But the question of State rights is one that has recently had, has now, and must continue to have, a vital importance in regard to the preservation of what was gained by the suppression of the rebellion. We therefore asked the World, and we now repeat the question: Suppose the Government of a State is unable, or, being able, is unwilling, to enforce respect for any provision of the amended Constitution, or for any of the laws passed in support or pursuance of those provisions; and the State Courts support the State Government, and, in case of consequent violence, no appeal is made by that Government to the General Government: what should the latter do? This is a very important question; but it is one easily answered, and we invite an answer from the Democratic papers for the information of the public.

Round the World by Railroad.

There are enthusiastic persons who expect to live to see the time when they can take a palace-car in New-York which will carry them to the utmost confines of Alaska, get transhipped over Behring's Straits, and be thence conducted by a vast circle railroad through Central Asia, Upper India, Cabool and Persia, along the Euphrates Valley, thence to Constantinople, Vienna and the confines of Western Europe. Sober-minded folks think this rather less reasonable than would be the expectation of performing the same journey in a balloon. To anybody at all disposed to conclude that, because the present generation will certainly see three or four railroad routes across this continent, therefore it is not unreasonable to suppose that, at least one may traverse, at no remote date, the entire breadth of Europe and Asia, we recommend the reading of the recent discussions over what is called "the direct highway to India." This idea found enthusiastic advocates at a time when our Pacific railroads were undreamed of, and as long ago as 1856 the possibility of forming the most essential link of said highway was very conclusively demonstrated by actual survey. Gen. CHESNEY, the veteran explorer of the Euphrates Valley route to the Persian Gulf, died without seeing the first step made toward the realization of his favorite project, and, though his views have recently found sufficient countenance to be made the subject of inquiry by a Committee of the British Parliament, their practical embodiment seems hardly more near than it was sixteen years ago.

And yet, this much talked of railroad between the Mediterranean and the head of the Persian Gulf is the merest installment of the proposed railroad connection between Europe and Asia. It would be but eight hundred miles long, and would require a connection of at least equal length to allow it to tap the European railroad system at Constantinople, and another a good deal longer to link it at Kurachee or some adjoining point with the railroads of British India. It must not be supposed, however, that the Euphrates Valley Road is a mere geographical chimera. The most practically minded of its opponents admit that it will be carried out some day. The difficulty in the way of its advocates is to show how it could be got to pay now. Its proposed route is as follows: A glance at the map of Asia Minor will show that the extreme north-east corner of the Mediterranean is occupied by a gulf variously known as that of Scanderoon, Iskenderoon or Alexandretta. The traveler round the world would here disembark from a steamer and enter a railroad car, which would take him, probably, by way of Aleppo to the right bank of the ancient river Euphrates. In the course of his journey through Mesopotamia he would pass across the probable site of the Garden of Eden, would find Babylon a wayside station, after passing a branch line to Nineveh, and would probably cross into the valley of the Tigris at the point where stands Bagdad, the city of the Caliphs, and the scene of the marvels of the Arabian Nights. Thence to Kowait, at the head of the Persian Gulf, would be but a brief journey, and at that point the steamer would be in waiting to convey him, if bound for India, to Kurachee, the great sea-port of Scinde.

Of course, the geographers, the social philosophers, and the probable Cook's excursionists grow enthusiastic over the prospect of bringing the hoar antiquity of Chaldean dynasties face to face with the latest products of the world's civilization. "To Babylon and back for five hundred dollars," might even attract hundreds of our own countrymen to fulfill the prophecy of an enthusiastic member of the British Association that the "restoration of the ancient route of the Euphrates" would bring three continents into closer relation, besides "rejuvenating" Babylon and Nineveh and "reawakening" Bagdad and Ctesiphon. To the English mind there is also the tempting prospect of making the Government independent of the Suez Canal for the conveyance of troops to India. And yet, although all that is wanted is the guarantee of the British Government to a four per cent. loan of fifty millions of dollars, the idea has not met in official or business quarters with anything like encouragement. The Turkish Government is open to give all the land that is wanted, free of cost, to take the joint responsibility of the loan, to give the yield of the Customs duties of two ports, and of sundry provincial revenues, to the proposed corporation, and, in fact, to undertake the construction of the railroad after the money has been raised, reserving to the British Government right of transportation of mails and troops. And still, it may safely be predicted that the road will not be prosecuted—at least for several years to come.

The "Gang" Nuisance.

For some weeks past, the public prints have been from day to day enlivened by the martial feats of various "gangs" of ruffians in different parts of the City. In many of the Wards, all that is idle and dissolute in a certain class of young men, crystalizes naturally into associations under the leadership of the most desperate and vicious in the number. Most commonly they place themselves under the patronage of some local pot-house politician, whose "influence" is exerted to screen their lawlessness from punishment, and whom they repay by indefatigable voting and intimidation of his opponents at the polls. For the most part, these associations or "gangs," as they prefer in their simple and classic language to be called, are composed of youths of from sixteen to twenty years of age, familiar with the use of knife and pistol, and rating it the height of manly accomplishment to spend their time in drinking and fighting alternately. Their notions of fighting, indeed, are not heroic, as they generally prefer to lie in wait in bodies of ten or twelve for a solitary member of the opposing "gang," whom they may be able, without much risk, to beat into insensibility. Sometimes, however, they have a regular pitched battle, in which knives, pistols, clubs and stones are freely used, and the inhabitants of the neighborhood enjoy for a brief period all the pleasures of a state of siege.

Within the past few days, two such gangs in the First and Tenth Wards have been repeatedly engaged, while two others of the Seventeenth Ward, on Sunday last, proceeded to Morrisania to see their leaders decide the question of supremacy in chivalric fashion by single combat in the ring. Now, so far as these young miscreants themselves are concerned, few would grieve if their battles ended like that of the Kilkenny cats. But their amiable intentions of mangling and tearing one another cannot, unhappily, be consummated in a crowded city without manifest danger to the lives of respectable citizens. Moreover, the martial passions excited by this internecine warfare are not to be confined to their original limits. The ward ruffian, satiated with conquest over his own kind, sighs like ALEXANDER for other worlds to conquer, and is too apt to turn his unoccupied pistol, or his idle "knuckle-duster," upon the honest and peaceable wayfarer. From these gangs, indeed, graduate a large part of the burglars, footpads, and murderers that fill our criminal calendars and populate our prisons. It is time that we were rid of them, and it seems impossible that the Police, knowing well their haunts and habits, should be unable to disperse and put them down. The Magistrates, too, can do their part by punishing to the full extent of the law all adherents of these ruffianly factions found guilty of partnership in their periodical disturbances. One of the "Swamp gang" has already been sent to the Penitentiary for shooting a rival vagabond, and a renewal of the feud between the same parties on Sunday night will result, we trust, in furnishing him many comrades. These young scamps must be taught that New-York is not Tipperary, and that unlimited "faction fighting" is no part of the liberty guaranteed by our laws.

Midas in California.

The diamonds of Arizona and the silver mountains of Utah are thrown into the shade, and the splendors of Golconda and of furthest Ind are set at nought forever. The machinations of "Bulls" in gold will henceforth become ridiculous, because utterly powerless, and the dreams of mediæval alchymists will become realities. Such, at least, will be the astonishing results if a man can be depended upon who has just related to the San Francisco Chronicle a tale, which it ushers into its columns with the guarded prefix that "the future may demonstrate its truth," and the undeniable commentary that, in such an event, "commerce will be revolutionized," and the possessors of the secret, the wonders of which are disclosed, will be the mercantile dictators of the world.

It appears that between three and four months ago, a "plain-looking man" of American birth walked into a San Francisco bank, and asked to see the manager. The latter was weary and not happy. Too much doubtful paper had been discounted, or the mining stock collaterals were shrinking too fast in value. Almost before the new comer opened his lips, the manager anticipated him by a not-over courteous refusal. "Very sorry," he said, "but can't do it, whatever it is." The plain-looking man made no reply, but calmly placed a leather valise on the banker's desk before him, opened it, took out an ingot of dingy metal, and handed it to the other in silence. "Well," said the man of "gilt-edged" and other paper, "what of it? Tin, ain't it, or brass?" A sarcastic smile illumined the face of the mysterious stranger. "Look again," he muttered, sententiously. "What for?" asked the banker, fretfully. "I'm no judge of minerals, anyhow—except one—and I've no time to study this particular specimen." His visitor mildly persisted, and to this end became more loquacious. "Do you know gold when you see it? If not, will you call in some trustworthy expert who does?" The banker, with some reluctance, assented. A well-known assayer was summoned, and to him the mass, with some others like it, was submitted. On seeing the metal he asked, with excitement, where it came from; but, receiving no satisfaction, agreed to do what was requested, and took it away for assay. The next day he came back, by appointment, meeting the two others, and produced a yellow bar. "That looks like gold," said the banker. "Rather," returned the assayer. "It is gold—nearly a thousand fine; the finest I ever put in a crucible." The mysterious owner said nothing. Questions were put to him as to where he got the precious stuff, but these were civilly evaded. He desired, as a further test, that the bar should be sent to the mint. This, too, was done, and the bar came back in due time, transformed into eight thousand dollars worth of double eagles. The cash, by request of the stranger, was put to his credit, and he then disappeared. For a week he was not seen, during which time the banker looked eagerly at the newspapers, expecting to find some robbery reported of an up-country treasure box, of which his new friend would turn out to be the hero. But this was not to be. At the end of a week the latter came back, and this time laid before the excited banker a much larger quantity of the same metal. "It is gold," he cried, "pure gold, like the last. Where did you get it?" The stranger looked with steadfastness at his interlocutor, and replied, calmly: "I made it—I made it myself."

The astonishment of the banker was, of course, unbounded, and was not diminished by the particulars afterward confided to him. Our modern Midas announced that after long and painful effort he had discovered the secret of the transmutation of metals. He could make gold by the ton—nay, by the shipload; but the process he would reveal to no living soul. A bargain was however effected whereby he and the banker became partners, Midas furnishing the bullion, and his friend undertaking its cautious and profitable distribution. The latter did not fail, by way of getting his chance in so good a thing, to point out the troubles and dangers that might arise—from those interested in values the momentous discovery would impair—were not secrecy, as to the identity of the inventor, and an intermediary, such as his own bank, judiciously employed. At the time the article of the Chronicle appeared, more than half a million of coin made of the manufactured gold is said to have been put in circulation, and plenty more of the same sort was soon to follow. The intention of the partners, as stated by the Chronicle, is to try to make San Francisco "the centre of all commercial exchanges, and the great depository of the products of the world." This part of the otherwise highly credible story, we confess, strikes us as rather dubious. It is intelligible that men should contemplate such a scheme, whose resources are not absolutely unlimited, but for these gentry, who may literally roll in gold, cui bono? Why not make any other place such a centre, or why bother about a centre at all? We quite agree with the Chronicle that it is "frightful to reflect what may be the result of their ambition, if it should pass beyond reasonable limits," and suggest, with deference, to these lucky holders of the Philosopher's Stone, that a judicious and patriotic use of a trifle out of their colossal means would enable the Government to return at once to specie payment. It is certain that any use they make of the discovery must tend to bring down the price of gold, and they might as well earn the credit of doing without delay what they cannot help doing at no distant future.

MINOR TOPICS.

For the amount of public attention which has been excited by the Louisville Convention, the Greeleyite organs have themselves chiefly to thank. They have probably good and sufficient reasons for the vast number of adjectives they have wasted over this affair, and they have certainly succeeded in giving it a kind of temporary notoriety. To the Republican Party the doings of Mr. BLANTON DUNCAN'S Convention is of the slenderest possible importance, and it is simply as a matter of current news that we present our readers with the gleanings of our special correspondent in regard to it. Anybody who wants to know of what material the Convention is likely to be composed, and what is reported as its probable action, will find the requisite information in our special dispatch from Louisville.

The employés of companies engaged in carrying passengers by railroad-cars and steamboats, in the absence of specific instructions as to duty, are apt to entertain certain notions of their own, which, to say the least, often cause serious inconvenience to the public. Quite a forcible illustration of this fact was given a few nights since at the wharf of the North Shore, Staten Island, Ferry Company. For some weeks past a steam-boat has been provided by the directors of this line for the better accommodation of those who may have occasion to remain in New York until 12 o'clock. On the night in question some thirty or forty ladies and gentlemen collected in front of the ferry-house to await the arrival of the Thomas Hunt. It was a dismal night. The rain fell in torrents, and there was a very high wind. The weary watch was maintained for an hour and a half after the advertised time for starting, but still the Hunt did not appear. The hackmen had, in the meanwhile, all gone home, and having failed to induce the master of a tug-boat to take the party off, the ladies were finally compelled to go on foot to different hotels through the pelting rain. It has since transpired that the Captain of the Thomas Hunt, thinking that no person having a regard for comfort would venture out on such a night, ordered his engineer to "bank" the fires, blow off steam, and go to bed.

It will certainly not be the fault of our correspondent in Grass Valley if those who start for Arizona to make their fortunes by gems come to grief. "To reach the so-called diamond fields," he writes, "wide tracks of arid deserts are to be crossed, where hundreds have perished from thirst, where the thermometer rises to 120° in the shade, if a shade can be found, and where the warlike, bold, cruel and untamed Apache holds possession of his mountain fastnesses." How eminently adapted is the New-York dry-good clerk, for example, to encounter and overcome such perils! The Australian and Californian gold fields ought by this time to have taught the truth that not one man in a thousand is really suited for such enterprise. It was but lately that we read a most graphic and miserable story of the sufferings of too many of those who hoped to exchange sufficiency for affluence on the South African diamond diggings.

A case likely to prove valuable to insurance offices was tried last Assizes, at Bristol, England. A person named BOWLE obtained a loan from an insurance company on the strength of a policy taken out in August, 1869, and died in November, 1871. After his death, the company received information which led them to believe that neither Mr. BOWLE'S health nor habits were of the satisfactory character which he alleged, and it was further discovered that, although himself the agent of an insurance company, he had not deemed it desirable to insure in the office for which he acted. The jury at once gave a verdict for the office. Courageous conduct of this kind on the part of insurance companies would increase the solidity of our offices and the confidence reposed in them.

There has recently been almost destroyed by fire a beautiful mansion in Hampshire, England, the seat of a lady whose late husband's family has long been closely connected with the United States. This is Melksbott Court, the seat of Lady ASHBURTON. "Every precaution had been taken," it is stated, but, there was just the slight omission, usual in such cases, that the pump was "out of order." An English paper says:

"The mansion was charmingly situated among the Hampshire hills, six miles from the town of Romsey on the one hand, and about an equal distance from Salisbury in an opposite direction. It was of Elizabethan style of architecture, with terraces and fountains front and back. It was begun in the lifetime of the late Lord ASHBURTON, and continued after his death by Lady ASHBURTON, who has resided there about five years. The house stood upon an eminence surrounded by a landscape of marvelous beauty and grandeur, having a southern front toward the New-Forest, and a background stretching away in the direction of Salisbury Plain. It is reported that all the priceless works of art with which the mansion was crowded and adorned, consisting of paintings, sculptures, bronzes, rare and curious china, tapestries, and the like, were saved through the great energy displayed on the occasion. Comparatively few of these treasures were injured, though some of the pictures had to be cut from their frames in the desire to rescue them, and in that way sustained damage, though not such as is irreparable. Not so with the painted ceilings in many cases, which were most magnificent. Some of the best of these have been hopelessly destroyed. Indeed, the most stately apartments in the house appear to have sustained the greatest damage."

AMUSEMENTS.

City Announcements.

"Ixion" is to be represented at Wallack's, this evening, and a one-act comedietta, to be recited as a preface to the familiar burlesque, will make known to the public Miss Rose Coghlan and Mr. Edmund Leathes....The Vokes Family are to profit by a benefit representation at the Academy of Music, this evening. "Black Eyed Susan" and "The Bells of the Kitchen" will be acted. The performance will be the last they are to take part in this season...' The Red Pocket-book" will be represented at the Olympic, this evening....The California Minstrels will to-night give their first entertainment at No. 720 Broadway....At Wood's Museum, Mr. F. S. Chanfrau will this week appear in "Kit."

General Home Gossip.

The unpublished compositions of the lamented Louis Moreau Gottschalk which, because in the keeping of friends in this City, escaped the fate of the remainder of his property in Rio, have been intrusted for preparation for publication to Señor R. N. Espadero, of Havana, a warm friend of the deceased artist and a musician of unquestioned merit. A first series of M. Gottschalk's posthumous writings are now ready for the press. The public awaits, with lively interest, the publisher's announcements, though we are not aware that any local firm has as yet secured the privilege of producing the works....The death of M. Eugene Prévost, a musician prominent in the history of the opera in New-Orleans, is made known. M. Prévost, who enjoyed a European reputation as a composer and orchestral conductor, came to Louisiana in 1837. He was a brother-in-law of Chollet, the original representative of Zampa and Fra Diavolo....Mr. Barrett acts in Hartford on Wednesday and Thursday next, and in Springfield on Friday....A new version of "Article 47" has been acted at the Chicago Academy of Music....To-night Mr. Sothern commences an engagement at the Walnut-street Theatre....Mr. Joseph Proctor is to perform in "The Red Pocket-book," at the Boston Theatre, this week....Miss Jane Coombs appears at the Buffalo Academy of Music on to-night week....Mr. Mayo is the lessee of the Rochester Opera-house, and has opened the season with "The Romance of a Poor Young Man."....The season at Wood's Theatre, in Cincinnati, will be commenced this evening....The Holliday-street Theatre, in Baltimore, has been reopened for the season....Mr. Jefferson acts in Portland on Wednesday....A series of Italian opera performances at the Metropolitan Theatre, in San Francisco, will occur this month. Mlle. Sontag and Signor Rossi K. Ravera are mentioned as the leading artists....The signers of the guarantee fund of the Boston Festival have been called upon for fifty per cent. of their subscriptions....The New-Orleans Picayune says: "The lovers of French dramatic performances will be glad to learn that arrangements are now making in Paris looking to the engagement of a dramatic company, who will perform at the Opera-house in New-Orleans next season. Mr. Placide Canonge, who has leased the Opera-house, is now in Paris, and letters have been received from him announcing the commencement of negotiations with artists of well-established reputation in France. Mr. Canonge is very sanguine of success in making suitable engagements, although he arrived rather late in Paris. Besides dramatic performances, it is expected that during the season New-Orleans will be visited by celebrated operatic singers. Correspondence has been opened with managers of operatic troupes with a view to such performances. A brilliant season at our Opera-house may, therefore, be expected. The building and paraphernalia of the Opera-house were turned over to Mr. Canonge's representative in this city a few days ago, in compliance with the terms of his contract."

A Democratic Office-Holder Asked to Report.

The Indianapolis (Ind.) Journal says: "Reports touching the official integrity of Jas. B. Ryan, Treasurer of State, have become so widely circulated and generally believed that we do not see how he can do otherwise than demand an investigation. Rumor says that Mr. Ryan has drawn and is drawing interest on a very large sum of public money belonging to the sinking fund, and that he is being enriched at the public expense at the rate of $25,000 to $30,000 a year. The law makes this a punishable offense, and we should like to know what Ryan proposes to do about it. If report be true, he is pocketing illegally every year four times as much as any county officer has ever made legitimately, and yet the Sentinel professes to be greatly scandalized at the emoluments of the county officers. Will Mr. Ryan step to the front and explain?"

DOOLITTLE "SAYS SOMETHING."

Mr. Doolittle has finally been compelled to "say something," as the Tribune promised. That we may do him no injustice, we give in full that journal's statement of Doolittle's "something," with all the headings and verbal pyrotechnics:

A LETTER FROM EX-SENATOR DOOLITTLE—HE DENIES THAT HE EVER GAVE CONATTY EITHER PERSONAL OR OFFICIAL INFLUENCE—THE CHARGES FALSE.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—The Daily News of to-morrow will contain a letter from Ex-Senator Doolittle, confuting the allegations of the Conatty affidavit, in which the Senator is charged with exacting money for his influence while a member of the Senate. Mr. Doolittle pronounces every statement relating to the exercise of his personal or official influence in obtaining a permit for Conatty false. Mr. Doolittle further says: "A telegram from Washington informs me that there were no papers nor recommendations on file from any one. The record shows that I did not ask for a permit in writing, and the only way in which I could have aided him would have been by a personal interview with the President or Secretary of the Treasury, which interview I never had. The only papers ever drawn by me in relation to any matter between us were drawn in his presence, at his suggestion, and with his full consent and approval, upon the mutual understanding that such papers were simply private and confidential memoranda, to be preserved for private use by the parties themselves. I cannot detail a conversation which occurred eight years ago, but I know that there was not one word said or purpose entertained which, if known to the whole world, would stain my honor as a Senator or a man."

Now let us see what this amounts to. In the first place Mr. Doolittle substantially admits what is undeniable, that the letters we published are genuine. "The only papers ever drawn by me in relation to any matter between us, were drawn in his presence, at his suggestion, and with his full consent and approval." The late United States Senator then admits that, having arranged to receive a present from Mr. Conatty, he sat down and drafted a form of a letter for Conatty to copy and send to him as his own. In that letter, be it remembered, Doolittle makes Conatty say of and to Doolittle:

"Allow me to say that during all my stay here I have witnessed on your part in the high position you occupy the same fidelity, and, I may add, such a position and course of conduct as my heart has been drawn to you; and as this permit may enable me to realize a great fortune—too great to be properly administered or enjoyed by any one man—I have determined that, as a present on my part, and in the belief that you could better use a portion, should the successful, than I could use all, I will remit to you the one fourth of all the profits I may realize over and above all my expenses. I do this in the hope that, while I may become rich in this operation, I may secure to you a competency also."

Mr. Doolittle also admits that he replied to this letter as follows:

Your magnanimous proposition contained in your letter from Baltimore, of yesterday, fills my heart with feelings which I cannot express. Such instances of disinterested friendship are so rare, so few among the sons of men; are endowed with such a high and noble generosity that I am without words to tell you how much it affects you [me.]

I have no claims upon you except those of a disinterested friendship sincerely cherished. As to this permit to trade in cotton, you have obtained it without any word, or influence, or thought of mine, even direct or indirect, for until your communication to me I never had any knowledge or thought even that you contemplated such a thing.

And yet this fact alone, which gives me no claim upon you, is the only possible ground upon which I accept your generous, I will say more, your most magnanimous offer.

Had I aided you in the least, directly or indirectly, in thought, word, or deed, I could not have accepted it if I would, and I would not if I could.

I hope you may realize your sanguine expectations, and be able to place yourself, without injury to any other human being, in a condition of pecuniary independence, so that when this fearful war is over you may retire to private life again to cultivate those literary pursuits you so much love, and which are more precious after all than gold and silver. And should your success be such that, in the munificence of your proposition, you can enable me to do the same, you will confer a great benefit upon your sincere friend, J. R. DOOLITTLE.

With these confessions before us it is not worth while to waste any time upon the points as to which Doolittle and Conatty are at issue. It makes little difference whether the present which Doolittle induces Conatty to offer him in such adulatory terms, and which he accepts so gratefully, was a voluntary one, as Doolittle says, or an involuntary one, as Conatty asserts. Nor is it very material to know whether Doolittle assisted in procuring the permit or not, though it will be difficult to give any reason why what was obviously considered by both to be of great value should be given to Mr. Doolittle unless it was in payment of services rendered, or to be rendered, and which services could only be rendered by virtue of his position as a Senator of the United States, and a member of the Committee on Military Affairs of that body. Whatever the intention may have been, it is certain that as soon as Doolittle fairly got the present in his hands, he set to work faithfully to render valuable services to the concern of Conatty, Doolittle & Co., for his letter accepting the donation, is dated on Dec. 30, and on the next day he writes that he has been to see Gen. Banks on the subject, and incloses a letter introducing "my friend, T. J. Conatty," to Gen. Banks, while four days later we find him running about to the Treasury and War Departments to procure information of benefit to the concern, which only his official position could enable him to obtain.

Whether the present was voluntary or involuntary, in payment for services rendered or to be rendered, Mr. Doolittle, who has been perambulating the country, denouncing the receipt of presents, confesses that while a Senator he received a most valuable present from a man whom he certainly could have greatly benefited through his official position, and whom he as certainly attempted to benefit, and when to aid his partner was to benefit himself. He confesses that he drafted the letter offering the present, and wrote the letter accepting it. More than this, besides the evidence which the letters themselves furnish that they were intended to conceal the true nature of the transaction, Mr. Doolittle adds that the "papers were simply private and confidential memoranda, to be preserved for private use." Why private? Why, if everything was fair and honorable, did Mr. Doolittle insist upon having the papers "private and confidential?" Why did he mark as "confidential" not only his acceptance of the present, but his letter referring to his interview with Gen. Banks? Why, in his letter to Banks, did he not frankly say that, "I, Jas. R. Doolittle, a Senator of the United States and member of the Committee on Military Affairs, have magnanimously been presented with one quarter interest in the profits of this transaction," instead of writing, as he did, that Mr. Conatty "visits New-Orleans upon a matter of great importance, not only to himself, but to the public welfare?"

But it is useless to say more. Mr. Doolittle stands convicted by his own confessions not only of the grossest inconsistency in denouncing Gen. Grant for receiving presents, but of an attempt to use his official position for his personal emolument, which we understand to be corruption. We learn that he is about to try to make some Greeley speeches in Minnesota. He had better stay away, for he will find the tangible evidences of his crime meeting him there, and the people of that State do not care to be instructed by one who, after such a confession as he has made, can calmly add, "I know that there was not one word said or purpose entertained, which, if known to the whole world, would stain my honor as a Senator or a man." The sturdy yeomanry of Minnesota do not need to be instructed as to their political duties by a person whose honor either as a Senator or a man is so badly tarnished that such a transaction as he admits cannot inflict upon it any further stain.

STRAIGHT-OUT DEMOCRATS.

Character and Strength of the Men in the Louisville Movement.

True Democratic Principles to be Enunciated Without Hypocritical Disguises—State Rights to be Exalted and the Results of the War Condemned.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 1.—If there was ever a political movement which was an unsafe subject of prophecy as to its action, it is this of the Straight Democrats, which, being to some extent due to the organizing talent of Blanton Duncan, has been called by his name by those Greeleyites who, fearing it, are endeavoring to belittle it. Yet something is certain concerning the affair. It is plain that the Convention resulting from this movement, which is to assemble in the Court-house in this city on Tuesday, promises to be, in the attendance, and in the personal standing of its members, the equal of that "hodge-podge" at Cincinnati which nominated Greeley, and the superior in representative character of that truckling body which at Baltimore sought Democratic good by "vile indirection." All the States will not be represented, and no attempt will be made, as at Cincinnati, to have men who were never within the limits of a Commonwealth do duty as its delegates. Thus far it is known that the States which are sure to have bona fide delegates are Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New-Jersey, New-York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. Those States not named may have representatives, probably will, but nothing is positively known on that subject as yet. Over 600 persons chosen as delegates from the States named have secured quarters here, and as many more are known to be coming as active sympathizers in the movement, to give it the moral support of their presence. It is then certain that at least 1,200 delegates will be gathered by Tuesday, who will be representatives of a class which is unalterably opposed to Greeley as well as to Grant.

IN THE DARK, BUT HONEST.

This assemblage will contain but few men who are widely known, as a necessary consequence of the old traders of the Democracy having gone off into a tortuous by-path to endeavor to make their way to power. Still less than is usual with Democratic gatherings, will it contain men who deserve well of their country. Some who will be here were rebels, and are yet unrepentant; others got into Fort Lafayette as Northern sympathizers, and more of them perhaps ought to have made acquaintance with that one, or some other of Mr. Seward's gloomy Bastiles. None of them are men who are living in this refulgent era. All of them are yet groping in the darkness of the ante-war days, and their pathway is lighted only by the flickering, uncertain, dark-lantern rays of the resolutions of '98. They are not men with whom Republicans can sympathize in their political views, but they are men who are so strong in political honesty that they must be respected. Like the rebels, they are bold enough and true enough to follow their creed to its logical conclusions. Being Democrats, they are utterly opposed to Grant, but abjure Greeley with loathing. They can't be cajoled by scheming traders or by the hope of present spoils into sustaining the base Baltimore bargain. They want power—would wrest it today from the Republican Party if they could, and getting it would use it as the Bourbons used it. Restored to authority they would not, perhaps, restore slavery, for even Democrats have found that to have been unprofitable; but they would reduce the negroes to peonage and fall fast and furiously into that legislation for the benefit of "labor" in which Democrats have always delighted. But they tell their aspirations plainly to the people. They do not go into the market-places with lies on their lips, and proclaim adhesion to the Cincinnati platform, which no one bred in the Democratic faith can possibly do. They are bold, sincere, hopeful—scorning to descend to false pretense to gain present success, and thus far entitled to the respect of the American people.

WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED.

In the spirit of this sketch this Convention will assemble, and it appears from the talk of those who have reached here, which has been epitomized in the above outline, that this spirit will be embodied in whatever expressions of opinion may be made. It may be taken for granted that, if there are any resolutions, they will be of the kind which has come to be called "Bourbon-straight," which, to the true Democratic mind, is the reverse of a taunt, as it means something exceedingly good, uncontaminated with any baser stuff. There will be no approval of the results of the war, for they feel none. There will be no hypocritical thanks to the soldiers and sailors of the Union, by whom Democrats were scourged. There will be nothing but denunciation for all those glorious deeds by which Republicanism has rolled obstacle after obstacle out of the colored man's upward way. States rights will be set up as the idol of Democratic worship as of old, and as this has come to include all the Democratic evils, it may be made to do duty for all the false gods which crowd behind, and be alone brought out to public view. There may be deference to this extent paid to expediency, but nothing beyond it. As to resolutions, therefore, there will be no trouble, but as to candidates, all is uncertain. I think it is undeniable that Charles O'Conor is the choice of every delegate who will be in the Convention. Every one who arrives expresses decided preference for him, and, what is singular, has no other choice. I have heard no name but that of O'Conor mentioned for the nomination for President, and what is more singular, I have heard some who will be of weight in the Convention declare that unless he takes the place they want no nomination at all. Perhaps this may be an exaggeration of the feeling with which these delegates are congregating, that they must have a candidate utterly beyond reproach or suspicion in his personal character to make their movement powerful in the present and promising for the future. In view of this fact it becomes doubly important to know whether Charles O'Conor will accept this nomination, and I think I may say with safety he will not, any more than he will take the Greeleyite nomination for Governor of New-York. I am not at liberty to give the source from which I have obtained this information here today, but having confidence in it, I am sure, as matters stand now, the country may be assured that Charles O'Conor will not be a candidate for President. As his published letter shows, he is in hearty sympathy with the Louisville movement, and revolts from the unholy Greeley alliance, but he does not believe the use of his name necessary to mark the condemnation by true Democrats of that alliance; and he is unwilling, having all his life kept himself aloof from the mire of party strife, to descend into it in his latter years. I am informed that he has presented views to this effect to gentlemen now here, and I am sure that he must have presented them with moral force, as some have acceded to them. I am constrained from all the facts now in my possession to believe that he will not be nominated, but as I said, this affair is dangerous for prophecy. The New-York delegation has not yet arrived, and some one among them may come armed with authority to speak in a different tone for O'Conor, and the whole situation may be changed in the twinkling of an eye. He may yet determine that he is not at liberty to refuse to put himself at the head of a movement representing at least 350,000 votes, when that place is pressed upon him in such a way as to make it a compliment rarely paid an American citizen.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

As to the Vice-Presidency I have heard nothing except the vagaries of our irrepressible Van Allen, that it ought to be Stephens, of Georgia. If nominations are made, Stephens will not be on the ticket, for the reason that he has written letters here peremptorily declining, on account of his health, to take any position. These letters are almost pathetic, as they picture a broken, enfeebled man, who expects never to leave his room again, with his mental strength yet unimpaired, and using it by the aid of a secretary in behalf of the political heresies which have borne bitter fruit to the country, but which he still believes have come upon it in spite of them. Stephens will continue while life is left in him to battle for these heresies, which he believes must soon be practically applied to the Government or the nation will perish. But he cannot take any other part than that of one stretched on a bed of suffering dictating to a secretary. He being out of the question, it is scarcely necessary to name any one else upon whom the choice of the Convention may fall, if, indeed, it makes any choice. Should O'Conor be nominated, the Vice-President will undoubtedly be from the West or the South, probably the latter, as such has always been the Democratic custom. But with O'Conor uncertain, everything is at sea.

A THORN IN THE GREELEYITES' SIDE.

It is the chief peculiarity of this Convention that, while the Republicans are indifferent as to what it does, it is, in every possible aspect, such a thorn in the sides of the Greeleyites that they are provoked into constant lying about it. Most of these inventions are familiar to the public, and need not be retold, but their last is their most mendacious. Senator Morton, of Indiana, it is well known, has been for some weeks making triumphant progress through his State, everywhere crushing the mongrel hordes of Greeleyites, and it so happened that a few days ago he reached Evansville. In the course of his canvassing there it was urged on him that he should proceed up the river by steam-boat and land at all the Indiana towns to make short addresses, and he consented. This journey is now in progress and will end to-morrow at New-Albany, one of the most important towns of Indiana, lying immediately opposite this city. Chance having brought Senator Morton into the neighborhood of this city, it is of course sent all over the land that he has come to direct the Bourbon Convention in the way it should go, and that he is to remain in New-Albany until its mission is accomplished. The truth is that Senator Morton is where he is without any thought of the Louisville Convention, that he will make one of his splendid speeches to-morrow night, in New-Albany, and that the same night he will proceed by rail into the interior of the State about his business, leaving the Convention to ascend in its own way to its business, if it should happen to find any. I may add that the Republican demonstration in New-Albany promises to be one of the grandest ever witnessed in southern Indiana, and one which will go far to prove the astuteness of that Greeleyite who recently informed the Sage that he need not count Indiana in his column.

THE ARRIVALS.

Up to this hour the arrivals here have been chiefly from the neighboring States, and there is nothing like a crowd yet. To-morrow large numbers are expected and by evening the political cauldron will begin to boil in the manner usual upon all such occasions. What sort of product the Convention will yield cannot be divined by any one, no matter how expert in such matters. There has been a rumor floating through the land for some days that the Greeleyites have arranged to capture this concern and make it declare for the Sage. Such a thing seems in the highest degree improbable, but remembering how they captured Cincinnati and Fifth-avenue, it is hardly safe to say it is impossible. E. C.

VERMONT.

The Approaching State Election—Hopes of the Greeleyites Likely to Be Blasted.

Special Cable Dispatch to the N. Y. Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 1.—The canvass in Vermont is ended, except to-morrow, which will be spent by the local Committees in correcting the voting check-lists, and making arrangements to bring out the lazy and indifferent, who stay at home usually unless persuaded by their neighbors, or assisted to free rides. The energy which Tammanyites in New-York spend in trying to cast fraudulent votes, and stuffing ballot boxes goes no further in this quiet, honest State than giving the sick and poor and lazy free rides. There will be no lack in this work this year, unless the signs fail. There is very little to add to what information of the situation has been already given by your correspondent. The prospects are bright for an increase of the majority of two years ago, but if it is not less than 20,000, it will not give any encouragement to the Greeleyites.

The State Senate now has but one Democrat in it. It is believed that this time a unanimously-Republican Senate will be chosen, though there is a sharp fight to be made on Ballard, in Franklin County, who can hardly be beaten. In the House of Representatives some losses will occur, owing to some unfortunate nominations by the towns. Each of the 240 towns has one representative whether its population be great or small. Burlington has a large foreign population, and is very close. The temperance people hold the regular Republican candidate for Representative, and he may be beaten; but there will be a majority, so far as can be ascertained, for the Republican State ticket.

Dr. Loring was expected to make two or three speeches the last of last week, but did not come, having been called to Maine. The meeting here, yesterday, was a great success, considering the weather. At least 2,500 people came in from out of town, which was more than twenty-five times as many as came to the Greeley meeting a few days before. Judge Settle remains here till to-morrow, as the guest of Gov. Underwood, and then leaves for Maine.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 2—1 A. M.—The barometer has continued rising over the Atlantic States, the highest extending from Indiana and Tennessee to the Carolinas. Clear weather is generally prevailing from the Mississippi to the Atlantic, except over Eastern Florida, and the northern portion of New-England, where cloudy weather and areas of rain are reported, easterly to southerly winds have prevailed over the North-west, with partly cloudy weather and areas of light rain over the lower Missouri Valley; the thermometer has risen somewhat from Tennessee to Wisconsin, and eastward over the Middle and New-England States.

PROBABILITIES.

Westerly and south-westerly winds and generally clear weather for the New-England and Middle States; generally clear weather for the South Atlantic States, with variable winds, and for the Gulf States east of the Mississippi, with northerly to easterly winds; generally clear weather from Tennessee to Lake Erie and the upper lakes, with southerly winds; partly cloudy weather and easterly to southerly winds for the North-west.

Shot by a Police Officer.

Between 12 and 1 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, while Officer McKlaran, of the Harlem Police, was endeavoring to arrest Edward Bulger, a notorious rough, who was acting in a disorderly manner at the corner of Second-avenue and One Hundred and Nineteenth-street, he was knocked down by the fellow, who then ran away toward Third-avenue. The officer not being able to overtake him, fired his revolver, the bullet from which took effect in the leg of the fugitive, inflicting a severe flesh wound. He was conveyed to the Twelfth Precinct Station-house, and, the ball being extracted by Dr. Thomas, he was locked up. Bulger is twenty-five years of age, resides at One Hundred and Ninth-street, between First and Second avenues, and is well known to the Police, he having served several terms on the Island.

Political Notes.

A vote taken on Saturday morning in the office of one of the principal gas companies of Brooklyn resulted as follows: Grant, 39; Greeley, 11.

The citizens of the Twentieth Ward of Brooklyn will raise a handsome Grant and Wilson banner, this evening, at the corner of Clermont and Myrtle avenues. Eminent speakers will address the meeting.

Hon. Henry A. Reeves, late Democratic member of Congress from the First District of this State, declines being considered a candidate for Congress, if by becoming so, he is "expected in any degree to abate, modify, or conceal his opposition for Horace Greeley for President."

Mr. Joseph De Costa, President of the George W. Francis Republican Association of the Eighth Ward and Fifth Assembly District, wishes it understood that he is not the Joseph Costa, of the same district, who is an alternate delegate to the Sorehead Convention at Syracuse. Mr. De Costa is unreservedly for Grant and Wilson.

The Appomattox Grant Campaign Club will hold a public meeting at their head-quarters in Brevoort Hall, Fifty-fourth-street and Third-avenue, to-morrow evening, to hear the returns of the Vermont election. Wm. Haw, Jr., and Cicero Taylor will deliver short addresses on the occasion.

MAINE.

Great Mass-Meeting in Franklin County—Five or Six Thousand Republicans Present.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

FARMINGTON, Me., Sept. 1.—Yesterday was a glorious day for Republicanism in Franklin County. A mass-meeting of the county had been announced for a week to hear Gen. Butler and Fred. Douglass, and the result was the largest turnout ever known in the county, not even during the war was it equaled. The audience was estimated at from 5,000 to 6,000, and Messrs. Butler and Douglass admit that it was the largest that they have yet addressed in the State, not even excepting the great meeting at Portland. The speeches were made in the open air, and the enthusiasm was unbounded. Douglass spoke an hour and a half and Butler two hours and a quarter, and yet the people were scarcely satisfied. Franklin has been charged with having become tainted with Greeleyism, but you will look in vain for it when the votes are counted.

Splendid Demonstration in Augusta To-night—The Final Rallies of the Campaign.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 1.—The dramatic part of the demonstration which was prevented by the storm of Friday last will take place here to-morrow night, on the occasion of a meeting to rebuke Gen. Hawley, of Connecticut. The Tanners will participate from Gardiner, Hallowell, Waterville and other points, and it will be a fine affair. The State Committee are arranging for a splendid chain of last grand rallies on Saturday night next at all the principal points in the State. The arrangements are not all yet completed, but those already made indicate a line of brilliant camp-fires all along the coast and up the valleys of the Androscoggin, Kennebec and the Penobscot, with Fred Douglass at Biddeford, Dawes at Portland, Justin S. Morrill at Brunswick, Harlan at Belfast, Hawley at Bath, Robeson at Ellsworth, Bingham at Calais, Butler at Bangor, Creswell at Oldtown, Russell at Skowhegan, and Blaine at Augusta, and many others.

The Persistent Slanders upon Senator Wilson—Did F. W. Bird Forge the So-Called German Letter?

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 1.—Senator Wilson went to Boston last night, but will return and resume the campaign at Bath Tuesday night. Gen. Harlan will take his place at Lewiston on Monday night, and Mr. Wilson will speak there on Thursday night also. Public attention should be called to the conspiracy which has just been developed to place Mr. Wilson in an equivocal attitude regarding his alleged connection with the American Party in 1854. Your correspondent has already exposed the letter to the Brooklyn Germans as a forgery, but what is curious is the fact that Frank W. Bird, of Walpole, generally known as the "Massachusetts Blatherskite," was ready to rush into print with a letter convicting Mr. Wilson of duplicity, on the basis of the letter to the Brooklyn Germans. There is evidence in existence that the letter was forged in Boston, and there is inherent evidence in Bird's letter and in the circumstances of the case that Bird himself was a party to the forgery. Now that it is known that Mr. Wilson never wrote the German letter, Bird and his confederate can contemplate the meanness they have achieved by this dirty trick. Congressman Dawes, Postmaster-General Creswell, Gen. Hawley, Judge Settle, Lieut.-Gov. Woodford, Senator Morrill, of Vermont, and still other able speakers, are expected here to-morrow. Dawes, Woodford, Hawley and Morrill will take the stump in the First and Second Districts, while Creswell will go up into the Fourth and Judge Settle into the Fifth District. The great meetings in this region to-morrow will be Butler at Biddeford, Harlan at Lewiston, Dawes and Douglass at South Windham, and Hawley at Portland.

Republican Appointments for the Week—A Noble Letter from Hon. Ebenezer Knowlton—The Work Goes Bravely On.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 31.—The following are some of the meetings to be held during the present week: In the Third District Hawley will speak at Augusta on Tuesday, Fred. Douglass at Gardiner on Friday, Judge Russell at Kendall's Mills on Tuesday, while John J. Foster, of New-Jersey, will divide the week between Blaine's district and Hall's in the counties of Lincoln, Knox and Waldon, on the coast, and Senator Lot. Morrill and Ex-Congressman Anson P. Morrill, with a brigade of local talent, will keep Kennebec and Somerset in a lively state of political ferment until the polls close. Thence up north into the noble old Fourth District. Senator Hamlin and Hon. Congressman Peters will speak every day during the week, and will be reinforced heavily by Postmaster-General Creswell, Gen. Lowell and Lieut.-Gov. Pinchback, of Louisiana, who have been assigned for the whole week to the counties of Penobscot, Piscataquis and Aroostook. The Fourth District will also have three days of Robeson, that gentleman speaking at Bangor on Thursday, Dover on Friday, and closing in a grand rally for Penobscot, Somerset and Piscataquis, at Dexter, on Saturday; while Gen. Butler will come up to Bangor from the Fifth for the closing grand rally on Saturday night. In the stoutly-contested Fifth District, the work will be very warm throughout the week. Judge Bingham, Gen. Caldwell and Congressman Hale will devote the whole week to Hancock and Washington Counties, while Speaker Blaine will hold a big meeting in Pike's own home—Calais—on Wednesday night. In addition to this, Gen. Butler will speak at Rockland on Friday night, and at a grand mass-meeting for Hancock County at Bucksport on Saturday afternoon. Foster will spend the last of the week in Waldo County, and Gen. Harlan will make three speeches at Rockland, Belfast and one other point. Still other assignments are yet to be made for this district, as the Democracy are throwing their entire strength into it, and Pike is fighting with the nerve of desperation. In addition to Farnsworth, Tilton, Hagerty, et al., they will the ensuing week send their candidate for Governor into the district, along with the windy E. D. Perrin, of New-York, and Gen. Banks, the latter of whom spoke in the Second District with Bion Bradbury, yesterday, and at Skowhegan, in the Third, today. Well authenticated reports from that portion of the Fifth District west of the Penobscot River, state that Pike is using his money freely there to get votes. This is probably true. Pike has the money to spend, and the necessity for spending it, if he is to be elected, has become imperative, but the news from that district continues to be good.

A NOBLE LETTER.

Hon. Ebenezer Knowlton, who was the candidate against Mr. Hale in the Republican Convention, has written a forcible and emphatic letter to those Republicans who were inclined to vote against Mr. Hale, which is having an excellent effect. The letter is as follows:

SOUTH MONTVILLE, Aug. 26, 1872.

DEAR SIR: The kindness and confidence indicated by your last letter to me, induce me to write you this note. I fear you and some other Republicans in your vicinity are inclined to withhold your votes from Mr. Hale. I hope you will not do so.

Please remember, either Mr. Hale or Mr. Pike will be elected. If you have been grieved by the course the former has taken in our district, have you not been much more deeply grieved by the course of the latter? Think of the repeated elections and patronage he has had from us, and his claiming to be acting with us up to the time of our late Convention; and, then, in so few days after, coming into the Greeley Convention and making a speech to secure the votes of "Greeley Republicans and Grant Republicans," and then, on the afternoon of the same day, going into the Democratic Convention and making a speech, accepting their nomination, and pledging himself to vote the Democratic ticket for Governor.

Can real Republicans sanction this arrangement to break down the Republican Party in our district, and reduce the majority of our most worthy Republican Chief Magistrate? The election of Pike would be hailed by Democrats all over the country as a decided victory. The men of the South who fought us during the rebellion would shout over it as a triumph and magnify it as an indication from the rising sun of a complete victory in November. My dear Sir, we are not far enough away from the rebellion to thus play into the hands of our enemies. I trust you are not tinctured with Greeleyism; that you will not, like Sumner, allow hate to one man to drive you from your political principles and friends, square over into the enemies' camp. Grant has his faults; but his Administration has been a decided success to all the leading business and political interests of the country. If the South has not had its full share of this general prosperity, it is because the late rebels would not accept it. At this time, to change Grant for Greeley, and reverse the policy of the Government, bringing rebels to the front, and compelling loyal men to take back seats, would be hazardous and suicidal.

Allow me a word as to our county nominations made last Saturday. Surely they bear no marks of "ring" or "clique."

The nominees are eminently worthy to receive our old-time majority. Let calm and wise counsel prevail. Remember, our political enemies are already trying to be jubilant over a few straggling recruits from our ranks. Don't let us increase their joys and hopes of success by our own inaction, or by giving our trumpet an uncertain sound.

From true political principle—burying all personal animosities—let us carry our whole ticket; Perham, Hale, and local Republican nominees, giving them such a triumphant majority as the present crisis demands.

Yours, &c., EBENEZER KNOWLTON.

SATURDAY'S MEETINGS.

A bright, clear, cold day has succeeded the storm of yesterday, and the atmosphere has been genial and bracing. Canvassing has, therefore, proceeded with unabated vigor, and the telegraphic reports show that all the meetings have been largely attended. There have been no great demonstrations, but there have been many large meetings. Franklin County held a mass-meeting at Farmington this afternoon, which was attended by a great crowd, and addressed by Gen. Butler and Fred. Douglass, who very properly follows Gen. Banks and Bion Bradbury, who spoke there yesterday. Another mass-meeting for Oxford County was held at Paris, the home of Gov. Perham, which has also been largely attended, and was addressed by Gen. Wilson and Gen. Harlan. In Knox County two meetings were held, one at Union in the afternoon and one at Warren in the evening, at which speeches were made by Gov. Washburn and Hon. John Foster. There were large and enthusiastic audiences at both places. Hon. John A. Peters and T. B. Reed, Esq., of Portland, had a fine meeting to-night at Saccarappa, and A. A. Strout, Esq., of Portland, addressed a large audience at Bridgeton Centre, Cumberland County. Speaker Blaine, beside attending to a vast amount of Committee business, drove out fifteen miles to Monmouth Centre, and had a rousing meeting of the yeomanry of Kennebec County, to whom he spoke most acceptably for an hour and a half. The demoralization of the Greeley Republicans is spreading rapidly, and they are deserting the coalition ranks by scores. The campaign goes bravely on. CYMON.

BOATING.

The Second Rowing-Trip Around Manhattan Island—The Gramercy Club Visiting Their Fellow Clubs—A Pleasant Excursion.

GRAMERCY'S BARGE NAUTILUS,
Sunday, Sept. 1, 1872.

About two weeks ago the Atlantic Boat Club, of Hoboken, and the Gulick Boat Club, of Christopher-street, New-York, made the trip around Manhattan Island, in three barges, stopping for rest and refreshment at the Gramercy's boat-house, on the Harlem River. In order to reciprocate, and keep up the social feeling which sprung up among these Clubs, the Gramercy boys mustered two crews and undertook the long pull this morning, although the white caps in the East River were over three feet high, and a stiff west nor' west breeze was right in the coxswains' teeth. The two crews assembled at the house, on the Harlem River, promptly at 10 o'clock, and donned their "blues," launched their two barges and got under way at 10:50 A. M. The boats were manned as follows:

Six-oared barge Nautilus.—William Coffin, bow; John Pentz, M. L. Sutton, the J. A. M. T. of the Olympic, Charles Brinckerhoff, Harry Braisted, Henry Mills, stroke; S. K. Brewer, coxswain; F. J. Engelhardt, Secretary to the expedition. The cargo consisted of several bottles containing prepared liquid of known preservative qualities.

Eight-oared barge Gramercy.—H. Brown, bow; H. Mills, C. Wilcox, A. Giesman, E. J. Reese, Charles Hastrich, Tom Williams, C. H. Cappia, Charles Earwicker, coxswain; William Walker, passenger.

Mr. William Bishop (Frank Swift, the famous skater) undertook the journey in a seventeen-foot race-boat. The water in the Harlem River was smooth, and a number of sheils belonging to the Nassau and Athletic Clubs were darting about in a manner perfectly bewildering to the uninitiated. All was life and bustle, and the hardy rowers reached out with a will. Before many minutes had elapsed the boats tossed on the waves, which, forced back by a strong head wind, often threatened to overwhelm the party. As one boat rose on the crest of a wave and the other sank in a trough of this sea, there was perhaps a difference of eight or ten feet in their relative positions. The coxswains gave their orders sharp and quick, and the well-trained crews responded with a will, and with their muscular efforts the boats rode safely over the angry waters, though waves occasionally dashed broadside on and broke over the bows and gunwales amidships, drenching the boys to the skin. The tide being about the first quarter ebb, it ran down like a mill-race, and, aided by the well-timed long and steady strokes of the rowers, the boats fairly flew past the island, the people on the docks and steam-boats waving their handkerchiefs and cheering them. Two stoppages had to be made to bail the water out, as bottom-boards and gratings were floating around in the boat. Another heavy sea was encountered at the Hook, and it required all the muscle, of which there was fortunately a plentiful supply, to bring the stanch barges safely through it. Off Grand-street Ferry slip is another and spot in rough weather, and this morning proved no exception; but another good drenching was the most serious consequence of getting over it. As the Battery the tide set around strong from the North River, and here came the toughest pull of the day; but after many a "with a will" from the coxswains, the boats crossed the river and glided into comparatively smooth water. this part of the stream being sheltered from the powerful wind by the Jersey shore. Two barges, the Gulick's eight and Atlantic four, were discovered a furlong north of the Battery, in waiting for their guests. After the usual salutations, "oars a peak," &c., they fell in line. At last the basin, foot of Fourth-street, Hoboken, was reached, and the houses stood in full view, the balcony, bridge and float being filled with more boating men. A large banner hung at the entrance, with the word "Welcome" painted upon it in large letters. The several orders, "way all," "oars across," "ship" and "out," were promptly obeyed, and the visitors, with appetites well sharpened by their morning's work, stepped into the hospitable house of the Atlantics at 1½ P. M., ready to do justice to the neat collation spread for them. After all had partaken of the repast, the musical talent was in demand, and contributed no small share to the pleasures of the occasion.

About 3 o'clock the coxswains called their crews, and all re-embarked to pay a visit to the Gulick Boat Club, the ten-oared barge of the Atlantics being added to the fleet. When the Christopher-street slip was reached a number of the Atalantas saw the party, and hastened down to open their trap-doors, and to assist the visitors in securing their boats, and then escorted them upstairs into their handsomely-furnished parlor and meeting-room. Mr. Ransom Parker, Jr., the President of the Atalantas, and a number of the members, soon made the rest feel at home, and after the well-being of the visiting crews had again been looked after, quite a number of gentlemen were found very proficient in music, among them Mr. John Lindsey, who sang the Atalanta's war-song. A visit was then paid to the Gulick's house, and all again returned to the Atalanta's, the fleeting hours were passed in song and general hilarity, until some of the cooler and more experienced heads called the attention of their coxswains to the red and gold in the west, which indicated that they would be but little daylight left for the remainder of the journey, and the tide would also be well up unless a start was made at once; so with many good wishes and promises of future social intercourse, the Gramercys, Atlantics and Gulicks took to their boats, the two latter clubs escorting their guests up the Hudson. The wind had gone down with the sun, and a fair flood tide made the homeward trip rather easy. The little four-oared barge Hannah, belonging to the Atlantics, and manned by Messrs. Judge, Hicks, Munson and Butlin, with Poe Livingston coxswain again, as on a former occasion, went through the fleet to the front, but not until the rather tired crew of the Gramercy's six-oared barge Nautilus had given them a good brush. At Thirty-fourth-street the escorting boats came to a halt and saluted their guests, who, after responding with an "oars a-peak," and a rousing cheer, went on their way. It is with much pleasure and satisfaction that we record this second trip around Manhattan Island, as it tends to unite our boating men closer in the bonds of friendship. We have reason to hope that we shall again have this pleasant duty to perform before the present rowing season is over. The trip around the City by water is thirty-three miles.

The Latest Figures of the West Virginia Election.

The Wheeling Intelligencer, of Saturday, gives the following relative to the election in West Virginia, differing materially from the figures sent by telegraph on Friday night:

"The vote for Governor and that on the Constitution, after the latest additions and corrections, now foot up; Jacob's majority, 2,988, with Clay, McDowell, Webster and Wyoming to be heard from. Majority for ratification of the Constitution, 1,978, with Clay, Grant, Lincoln, Logan, McDowell, Wayne, Webster and Wyoming to be heard from."

AN EIGHTH WARD TRAGEDY.

A Tammany Politician Shot Dead by an Associate—A Sunday Night Scene in a Drinking-Saloon—Escape of the Murderer.

A shocking scene was enacted last evening in the drinking-saloon No. 288 Hudson street, known as "The Place," of which Chas. Harvey, an ex-policeman, is the proprietor. The victim of the tragedy was Robert S. Dunn, alias "Bob Isaacs," a sporting character, who was shot and instantly killed by Wm. J. Sharkey, another well-known "sport" and Tammany politician. Any accurate account of the tragedy could scarcely be obtained owing to the conflicting statements of the friends of both parties, but the particulars, as nearly as they could be ascertained, appear to be as follows:

"The Place" is a noted resort of local politicians, and is greatly affected by the members of the Michael Norton Association, whose rooms are situated exactly opposite. Dunn and Sharkey were intimate acquaintances, and had long been personal friends. Yesterday they both attended the funeral of James Reilly, a well-known Eighth Warder, and appeared to be as friendly as ever. After returning from the funeral shortly before 8 o'clock last evening, Dunn and Sharkey went to "The Place" and commenced drinking. There were in the place at the time Mr. Welsh, alias "Sweet William." Thos. Hanna, Thos. Huyler, Harry Cline, the bar-tender, and several others. Sharkey, under the influence of the liquor, became noisy and quarrelsome, and picked a quarrel with Dunn. Finally the men became involved in an argument about $500, which Sharkey claimed Dunn owed him. Sharkey drew from a rear pocket of his pantaloons a Derringer pistol with a hair trigger, and remarked to Dunn: "Go and fix yourself; I don't want to take advantage of you." Dunn threw up his hands and remarked: "Put that away, Billy." Sharkey, who appeared to be scarcely conscious of what he was doing, still held the pistol in his right hand and repeated his remark to Dunn to "fix" himself. The latter left the position in which he was standing at one end of the bar, and passed over to the other end, edging toward the side-door leading to the hall-way, the only means of exit, the front doors on Hudson-street being locked. This brought him immediately in front of Sharkey. The latter placed the pistol over his left arm, and remarked to Welsh, "I've known the time when I would place this arm on a butcher's block and have it chopped off without flinching." At this moment the pistol was discharged, and Dunn sank to the floor with a groan. Sharkey, horrified at seeing him fall, remarked: "Bob, I didn't mean to do it," and ran out of the saloon, none present attempting to detain him. The by-standers gathered about the fallen man, and found that he was dead. The bullet from the Derringer had entered the breast at the median line, causing a terrible wound. Death was instantaneous.

Information was at once sent to the Greenwich-street Police Station, and Capt. Garland and several officers were promptly on hand. Finding that Sharkey had disappeared, several officers were sent in search of him. A general alarm was sent by telegraph to all the Police Stations in this City, directing the Police, to whom Sharkey is well known, to keep a sharp lookout for the fugitive. At 1 o'clock this morning he had not been found, and the Police are still in search of him. The last heard of him he was at Canary's stables, in Mercer-street.

In the meantime the dead body of Dunn was placed on a stretcher and removed to the Greenwich-street Police Station. Coroner Young was sent for and in charge of the case. At the request of the friends of deceased, a permit was given to remove the remains to Dunn's late residence, No. 102 Amity-street. The body was taken there shortly after midnight.

The affair caused the most intense excitement throughout the Eighth Ward, where the parties were well known. The Station-house in Greenwich-street was thronged during the evening and until long after midnight by crowds of local politicians and sporting characters. As stated above, a great diversity of opinion exists in regard to the affair. Friends of Sharkey claim that the shooting was entirely accidental, while those of Dunn assert that it was a premeditated and causeless murder. Even the eye-witnesses of the occurrence are divided in opinion.

Dunn was forty years of age, and lived in Amity-street, where his wife and mother reside. He was known as a gambler, but was very popular with his associates. Sharkey is about thirty-five years of age, and lives at No. 119 Varick-street. He is also a gambler and politician. He was a Tammany candidate for Alderman some years ago. He was arrested some time ago by the late Superintendent Jourdan for endeavoring to dispose of some bonds, which were said to have been a portion of the proceeds of the Lord bond robbery.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Not less than 90,000,000 francs, according to the Patrie, is the figure representing the decline of the French revenue from indirect taxation during the first half of 1872.

Damages to the extent of 350,000 francs have just been awarded against the Lyons and Mediterranean Company to eleven families, members of which were killed or injured by a train running off the rails at Champigny on Sept. 16, 1871.

A well-known French avocat, M. Bigot, was struck with apoplexy on Aug. 30, while pleading for a Communist prisoner at Versailles. He had just arrived from London, and had breakfasted rather copiously, going out into the sun immediately after. The unfortunate advocate never recovered consciousness, and died on the following day, surrounded by his family.

The Congress on Pre-historic Archæology opened in Brussels on Aug. 22, under the Presidency of M. d'Omalius d'Halloy, who is in his ninetieth year, having been born at Liege in 1783. More than 600 names had been sent in to the Committee of Organization, and among them were those of Prof. Owen, Sir J. Lubbock, Gen. Faidherbe, and other well-known gentlemen.

The London correspondent of the Scotsman understands that, in spite of further remonstrances, the process of embalming the body of Mazzini is still being continued at Genoa, and that, too, in spite of Mazzini's own urgent request that he might be buried in a family grave. An appeal addressed to Garibaldi does not, he says, appear to have called for any interference or protection on the part of the General.

Great excitement was occasioned in Fraserburg, England, on Aug. 30, by the arrival of the herring fleet, with a capture higher and more valuable than had ever before been landed at that station. Of the 600 boats which entered the harbor only a few were unsuccessful. The total will be 12,000 or 13,000 crans, representing the enormous number of 1,200,000 herrings, the value of which may be roundly stated at £15,000 to £16,000.

At one of the inquests most lately held in Whitechapel, London, the jury called attention to the disgraceful state of the shells in which paupers were buried. One gentleman said that they were nothing better than egg boxes painted black, and he wished to know how much longer such a state of things was to last. Another juryman said that he had served on many coroners' inquiries in the district, and always found the shells in the same horrible condition, and it was a great wonder that the weight of the bodies did not break through the rotten boards. The Coroner acquiesced in what had been said, and a resolution was passed to make a complaint to the parish authorities forthwith.

Allen's Indian Mail says: "'Prince Gholam Mohammed died yesterday.' Such were the few words of a Calcutta telegram dated Aug 13. Not many readers were probably aware that the Prince so briefly mentioned was the last surviving son of Tippoo, the fierce Sultan of Mysore, who, after years of plotting or fighting against the hated Feringhi, fell at the storming of Seringapatam, in the last year of the eighteenth century. On Tippoo's death, the kingdom which his father had founded was broken up, but the province of Mysore was given back to the old line of Hindoo Rajahs from whom Hyder Ali had dispossessed. Tippoo's children were removed to the fort of Vellore until the mutiny and massacre of our soldiers at that place in 1806—a disaster mainly due to the intrigues of the young Princes and their partisans—brought about their removal to Calcutta. There the Princes lived and grew old on the handsome pensions allowed them by the East India Company, and there in succession they died. Gholam Mohammed's years were more than eighty when he too passed away, after seeing the Power which his father had defied and his grandfather placed in imminent peril carry its arms over all India, and weather a mutiny far wider spread than that of Vellore. The last mention made of him in an Indian paper was about eighteen months ago, when the old man figured at one of Lord Mayo's durbars, and received from the Viceroy a full measure of the courtesy due to his years and antecedents."

The Levant Times, of the 12th of August, says: "A melancholy episode of harem life terminated, last night, in the death of a beautiful Circassian slave, with symptoms of poisoning. She had been purchased some time ago for the sum of T.£700 by a wealthy Mussalman of high rank, a man well advanced in life, who has one legal wife and a number of concubines, but no children. She became the favorite of her master, who was much distressed some days ago at her falling seriously ill, her malady being characterized by thorough prostration of the system. He had her removed to the house of one of his dependents, near his yali, on the Bosphorus, giving instructions that medical aid should be procured, and no pains or expense spared to restore the sufferer to health. The way in which the person to whom the precious charge was intrusted fulfilled these instructions was to send for a medical man and drive a bargain with him at the rate of twenty piastres a visit, medicines to be included. It is stated, and is very probably true, that the practitioner did not pay a second visit. A 'wise woman' was then called in and wrote some talismanic words on a scrap of paper. The patient was visited daily by a number of her fellow-slaves from the harem, who displayed much compassion for her, and a respect indicative of the high place she occupied in their master's affections. For six days she neither ate nor drank anything, and she remained in a comatose state, apparently paralyzed, until last night, when she expired—the victim, probably, of jealousy, or of some harem intrigue."

FASHIONS AT AIX LES BAINS.

The usual Paris correspondent of the Queen says: "The Casino at Aix les Bains is very brilliant this season. For many years past it has been a fashionable watering-place. Queen Hortense was wont to visit it, and later the Duchess de Barri came hither for change of air and scene; and at the present time the small aristocratic town is filled with English, Italian, and French visitors. The fashions in vogue here are very pretty—somewhat original, and som

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

On Saturday last, Aug. 31, there was a fair attendance at the Exchange, and the following real estate was sold under legal orders.

By Mulier, Wilkins & Co., by order of the Court of Common Pleas, under the direction of Wm. G. Annan, Esq., the blacksmith-shop and frame stable, and lot, situate on the north side of Sixth-street, 52 feet west of Avenue D, 41 by 22.9. Sold to John Hanken for $4,000.

By Hugh N. Camp, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of G. Irvine Whitehead, referee, the plot of land on the north side of One Hundred and Fourteenth-street, 195 feet west of Third-avenue. Sold to Peter A. Anner for $7,600.

By A. J. Bleecker Son & Co., by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of John J. Thomasson, referee, all right, title and interest of James Riley and others in and to the four lots of land situate on the north side of One Hundred and Fourteenth-street. 116.11½ feet west of New-avenue. Sold to John Pyne for $100.

No other business pertaining to real estate was transacted at the Exchange.

The following sales by private contract were, however, reported to have recently been made.

By Wm. H. Raynor, No. 5½ Pine-street, four lots, 100 by 160, situate on the north-east corner of Grand Boulevard and One Hundred and Forty-fifth-street, and eleven lots adjoining, and fronting on One Hundred and Forty-fifth-street, for the sum of $66,000. Also one lot, situate on the south-east corner of Second-avenue and One Hundred and Seventh-street, for the sum of $6,600. By E. H. Ludlow & Co., No. 3 Pine-street, one lot, situate on the north-east corner of Grand Boulevard and One Hundred and Thirtieth-street, 25 by 100, for the sum of $7,000. By V. K. Stevenson and Son, No. 11 Pine-street, four lots, situate on the north-west corner of Eighth-avenue and One Hundred and Second-street, fronting Central Park, 100 by 100, for the sum of $73,000. Two lots, situate on the south side of Seventy-sixth-street, 160 feet west of Fourth-avenue, each 25 by 100, for $25,000.

REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK'S BUSINESS.

The transactions in real estate at public auction have been confined to legal sales, the amount of property sold being small in consequence of adjournments. There has been no sales of suburban property held. The sale of lots at Tarrytown, Westchester County, which was advertised to take place by James M. Miller on Tuesday last having also been adjourned, and the other sale of lots located at Hackensack, N. J., which was held on Thursday last by the same auctioneer, at the Exchange, was unsuccessful, the property being withdrawn through lack of bidding. The City realty disposed of at public auction during the week ending Saturday, Aug. 31, was as follows: By A. J. Bleecker, Son & Co., $50,200; by Hugh N. Camp, $19,975; by Mulier, Wilkins & Co., $4,000; by E. H. Ludlow & Co., $4,000; by James M. Miller, $10,600. Total, $88,775. Two other sales, both of which combined real and personal property, were also effected by auction. One consisting of mining rights and real estate in Nevada, which realized $7,500; the other consisting of all the property belonging to the Staten Island Railroad and Ferry Company, both real and personal, which was sold for $145,000. The sales of City realty for the week previous amounted to $145,000.

The auction sales set down for the present week are not very numerous; they are principally of a legal character, and the property involved consists mostly of improved house property. They are advertised to take place as follows:

This Week's Proposed Auction Sales.

By E. H. Ludlow & Co., at the Exchange, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of Sargent V. Bagley, Esq., referee, the three-story and basement brick house and lot No. 462 Fourth-avenue, north-west corner of East Thirty-first-street, 21.7x40x 78.11.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 6.

By Joseph McGuire, at the Exchange, by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of James H. Coleman, referee, the house and lot situate on the north side of Thirty-fourth-street, 41.8 feet east of Tenth-avenue.

On Tuesday, Sept. 3, Jere. Johnson, Jr., will inaugurate the Fall season of suburban sales by offering, on the premises, at Ocean Point, Rockaway Neck, Long Island, a large number of villa plots, the same being the balance of the Marsh estate, left over from the sales of last Spring. Full particulars may be obtained from the auctioneer.

RE JANE JACKSON, DECEASED.—Pursuant to an order of the High Court of Chancery, made in the matter of the Trustee Relief act, tenth and eleventh Victoria, chapter nineteen, entitled "An act for better securing trust funds and for the relief of trustees," and of the trusts of the will of Jane Jackson, deceased.

The persons claiming to be next of kin to Jane Jackson, formerly of White Hart-lane, Tottenham, in the County of Middlesex, widow, who died in the year 1808, are by their solicitors, on or before the 2d day of November, 1872, to come in and prove their claims at the Chambers of the Vice-Chancellor, Sir John Wickens, No. 13 Old-square, Lincoln's Inn, Middlesex, or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said order.

Saturday, the 16th day of November, 1872, at 12 o'clock at noon, at the said Chambers, is appointed for hearing and adjudicating upon the claims.—Dated this 8th day of August, 1872.
H. F. CHURCH, Chief Clerk.
J. RAND BAILEY, No. 8 Tokenhouse-yard, London, E. C., Solicitor for the Petitioners.

NOTE.—James Charles George Chamberlain, (one of the grandchildren of the above-named Jane Jackson, deceased,) formerly of Chelsea, in the County of Middlesex, grocer, left England in or about the year 1834 and was residing at New-York in the year 1838 under the assumed name (it is believed) of Frederick Stokes.

EXTENSION RAILWAY

First Mortgage 7 Per Cent. Convertible

GOLD BONDS,

AT 90 AND INTEREST,

Issued by the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railway to aid in building its EXTENSION line West, in a direct line from Champaign (185 miles) to the Mississippi River at Keokuk, and a branch from White Heath (32 miles) to Decatur, all in the State of Illinois. The bonds are secured by a first and only mortgage on the EXTENSION, now being rapidly constructed in the most thorough manner by able and experienced contractors who represent a capital of several millions of dollars, which insures the last rail being laid at an early date. About 60 miles are already finished and 110 miles graded; the whole line, 217 miles, will be completed early in 1873. We have been connected and entirely familiar with the L. B. & W. Railway from its early organization. It was completed in the Autumn of 1870, and has developed rapidly into a SUCCESSFUL AND WEALTHY CORPORATION, having a large revenue from its largely increasing business. With the EXTENSION it will be one corporation, with 420 miles of road, located in a commanding position in the heart of the best portion of the country. The counties on the line of the EXTENSION in 1870 had a population of 242,330; valuation of real and personal estate, $181,000,000; bushels of grain raised, 27,000,000; value of farm products, $25,570,000, and live stock, $18,349,000; to which may safely be added 15 per cent. to represent the present population and value. THE COUNTIES ON THE OLD LINE AND THE EXTENSION TOGETHER CONTAIN A POPULATION OF NEARLY THREE-QUARTERS OF A MILLION, AND A PROPERTY VALUATION EXCEEDING $400,000,000.

From these statistics it will be readily seen that the EXTENSION will have a Local Business that will make it a complete success. In addition to this it will have the entire Through Traffic of the Missouri, Iowa, and Nebraska Road, connecting with it on the Mississippi River, and extending West to the Missouri, 300 miles, where it connects with the Midland Pacific in Nebraska. These two corporations, and also the Peoria and Rock Island (91 miles,) and the Davenport and St. Paul (300 miles,) although separate corporations, ARE CONTROLLED IN THE INTEREST OF THE INDIANAPOLIS, BLOOMINGTON AND WESTERN RAILWAY, and, practically, will be a united line of more than 2,200 miles, the through business of which will pass over the L., B. & W. This is an East and West trunk route and has no parallel competing line. The Eastern connections at Indianapolis are the Pennsylvania Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Bellefontaine, Lake Shore, and New-York Central, and other roads centering at this point. From the Sea-board to the West and North-west distances are materially reduced via this system of roads; so much so that it cannot fail to be the popular line for travel and business. Liberal subscriptions to the stock were made by towns and counties on the line of the EXTENSION, and the remainder has been taken by experienced railroad men and Eastern capitalists.

These facts cannot fail to make the bonds, which will be issued only on completed road, take high rank among the best railway securities.

The bonds are $1,000 each, convertible into stock at par, at the option of the holder, and may be registered free of charge.

Coupons, payable January and July 1, free of tax. The bonds may now be had from banks and bankers throughout the country.

We offer them at present at 90 and interest, and recommend them strongly to our friends and investors as one of the safest and most desirable securities on the market.

Bonds delivered free of express charges. Maps, pamphlets and circulars furnished on application.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the Controller's office until Tuesday, Sept. 3, 1872, at 2 o'clock P. M., when the same will be public y opened for the whole or any part of the sums of ONE MILLION SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLARS of Stock of the City and County of New York, to wit:

ADDITIONAL NEW CROTON AQUEDUCT STOCK, authorized by chap. 230, Laws of 1870, payable Aug. 1, 1900	$250,000
ADDITIONAL CROTON WATER STOCK, authorized by chap. 56, amended chap. 328 Laws of 1871, payable Nov. 1, 1891	100,000
ASSESSMENT FUNDS STOCK (County,) authorized by chap. 565, sec. 7, Laws of 1865, payable Nov 1, 1887	768,000
CITY PARKS IMPROVEMENT FUND STOCK, authorized by chap. 290, Laws of 1871, payable in thirty years	400,000
WATER STOCK OF 1870, authorized by chap. 383, sec. 6, Laws of 1870, payable Nov 1, 1902	250,000

Said stock to bear interest at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable on the 1st day of May and November in each year.

The proposals will state the amount of stock desired and the price per one hundred dollars thereof; and the persons whose proposals are accepted will thereupon be required to deposit with the Chamberlain the sums awarded to them respectively, together with any premiums thereon.

On presenting to the Controller the receipts of the Chamberlain for such deposit, the parties will be entitled to receive certificates for equal amounts of the par value of the sums awarded to them, bearing interest from the dates of payment.

Each proposal should be sealed and indorsed "Proposals for Stocks of the City and County of New York," and inclosed in a second envelope addressed to the Controller.

The right is reserved on the part of the Controller to reject any or all of the bids, if in his judgment the interests of the Corporation require it.

CANADA SOUTHERN

First Mortgage Sinking Fund 30 Years

SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS

Interest Payable April and October at the Union Trust Company,

AT 90 AND ACCRUED INTEREST.

This road is the Western link in the new AIR LINE from BUFFALO to CHICAGO and runs from the Detroit River to Chicago in nearly a straight line.

The road is a part of the same line as the Canada Southern and is being built by the same men, viz.: Milton Courtright, John F. Tracy, David Dows, Wm. L. Scott, Henry Farnam, R. A. Forsyth, Jno. M. Burke, M. L. Sykes, Jr., all Directors either in the Chicago and North-west or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; George Opdyke, of the Midland Road; Sidney Dillon, Daniel Drew, John Ross, David Stewart, Samuel J. Tilden, Kenyon Cox, and other prominent railroad men.

The Road, like the Canada Southern, will have steel rails (60 pounds to the yard) throughout; is practically straight and level; much shorter, and can be run with greater speed and safety than any other road connecting with Buffalo and Chicago.

Twenty-five miles are finished and running; seventy-five miles more are so far advanced as to be finished by Jan. 1; and the entire road will be completed during the ensuing year. Steel rails and ties for one-half the entire road have already been purchased.

The builders of the road control enough of its Chicago feeders to obtain for it a profitable business from the start, having projected the line to accommodate existing business, and having seen the necessity for another trunk line between Chicago and the Atlantic sea-board, located expressly with the view of obtaining the cheapest transportation practicable.

The branch lines will make the shortest connections between Chicago and Toledo, and Chicago and Detroit, as well as between all these points and Buffalo.

The Canada Southern Bonds, in every particular like these, were eagerly taken, the last of them several weeks ago, by the best class of investors, and were on the market a shorter time than any other railroad loan of like amount for years past.

The proceeds of these bonds will complete the entire line, and we recommend them with the same confidence as we did the Canada Southern, and regard them as in every way a choice security.

25 PER CENT. SEPT. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. OCT. 1, 1873.

The Subscription Books now open at the office of the undersigned will be closed as soon as the new stock is fully subscribed. All past due installments must be paid with interest at time of subscription.

The total amount of stock issued at this time is $414,700, and on this basis the Company shows a present surplus of $136,280 97, and is now doing a flourishing business. One thousand men are constantly employed in their extensive works, and they now have on hand $1,250,000 of work for various railroads in the United States, among which may be mentioned the

CHICAGO, R. I. & PACIFIC,
CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN,
MICHIGAN CENTRAL,
MISSOURI PACIFIC,
ATLANTIC & PACIFIC, &c.

and the Company is now offered work to the amount of over $6,000,000, including some of the largest bridges ever built in this country; to accept of which, and further business, necessitates a larger working capital, as immense amounts of material have to be kept constantly on hand, and the Company are frequently obliged to receive, in part payment for their work, railroad and other bonds, which are perfectly good securities, but not always immediately marketable.

A point of incidental but great importance to those seeking security is the fact that the Company own thirty acres of land in Chicago, which leading real estate dealers say will be worth, in six years, at least $1,000,000 an amount equal to the whole proposed capital.

The career of the American Bridge Company, though brief, has already fully demonstrated the profitableness of the enterprise. The Company has constructed since its organization, and up to the 31st of December, 1871, a total of 38,137 feet of bridges, 18 turning tables, and 16 iron roofs, and pneumatic and screw pile substructures, costing $3,400,000, and have facilities for the construction of pneumatic piles unsurpassed by any Company in the country, and a capacity for the construction of at least 150 feet of bridges for every working day in the year.

The Iron Railroad and Highway Bridge at Leavenworth, of three spans of 340 feet each, and the Union Pacific Bridge across the Missouri River, of eleven spans of 250 feet each, were constructed by this Company.

The net profit arising from this business, as shown by the books of the Company up to the 31st of March, 1872, was the sum of $373,482 14, or at the rate of $224,089 28 per annum, being over 50 per cent. upon the capital stock then outstanding. With the proposed new structures, machinery, &c., the Company will have much greater capacity, and the proceeds of the increased issue of stock will enable them to buy material for cash, thereby making a saving of from $50,000 to $75,000 per year.

The Company can undoubtedly, on above basis, make dividends of from 240 to 25 per cent. per annum on the full amount of capital, $1,000,000, with a fair prospect of considerable increase.

The undersigned are prepared to give to those inquiring, the fullest details and entire satisfaction regarding the reliability of the Company's statements, and the unquestioned integrity and ability of its officers.

We confidently commend to capitalists the above, as an investment worthy their attention.

CHAP. 700.

AN ACT to supply deficiencies in former appropriations and to pay the indebtedness of the State on account of the canals, which deficiencies and indebtedness have been changed into liabilities for money borrowed to pay them, or into certificates of indebtedness on which the State is now paying interest, and to pay the floating indebtedness of the State and the estimated liabilities for the present fiscal year not yet provided for by law, and to raise money therefor, by an issue of the bonds of the state, and to provide for submitting the question thereon to the People.

PASSED May 15, 1872; three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. To supply deficiencies in former appropriations, and to pay the indebtedness of the State on account of the canals, which deficiencies and indebtedness have been changed into liabilities for money borrowed to pay them, or into certificates of indebtedness on which the State is now paying interest, and to pay the floating indebtedness of the State and the estimated liabilities for the present fiscal year not yet provided for by law, and to raise money therefor, by an issue of the bonds of the state, and to provide for submitting the question thereon to the People, the sum of fifty-five thousand eight hundred and one dollars and ninety-five cents, to pay for deficiencies unprovided for in full by act, charter seven hundred and sixty-eight of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy. The sum of two hundred and sixty-nine thousand two hundred and thirty-four dollars and eighty-four cents, to pay for deficiencies in appropriations under act, chapter seven hundred and sixty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy. The sum of one hundred and forty-four thousand three hundred and fifty-nine dollars and fifty-seven cents, to pay for deficiencies in appropriations under act, chapter nine hundred and thirty of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-one. The sum of sixty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary to meet and pay the interest on the awards for work or certificates of indebtedness issued, to meet the deficiencies enumerated in the three foregoing items of deficiencies. The sum of three hundred and ninety-three thousand seven hundred and fifty-five dollars and fifty-one cents, for outstanding certificates of awards of canal damages made by and expenses attending cases heard before the canal appraisers in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-one now on interest. The sum of fifty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary to meet and pay the interest on the certificates in the last foregoing item mentioned. The sum of twenty-five thousand four hundred and thirty-one dollars and ninety-nine cents, the amount of certificates on interest now outstanding for work done on the eastern division of the Erie canal in excess of any appropriation therefor. The sum of sixty-one thousand six hundred and eleven dollars and thirty-one cents, the amount of certificates on interest now outstanding for work done on the Champlain Canal improvement in excess of any appropriation therefor. The sum of two thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, the amount of certificates on interest now outstanding for work done on the Black River Canal in excess of any appropriation therefor. The sum of one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to pay the amount of certificates on interest now outstanding and for work done on the Chenango Canal extension in excess of any appropriation therefor, a portion of which was especially exempted from payment out of the appropriation of such Chenango Canal extension made by chapter nine hundred and thirty of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-one. The sum of twenty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, and now due and unpaid for work done and performed on the Oneida Lake Canal, in excess for any appropriation therefor. The sum of forty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary to meet and pay the interest on the last four foregoing items. The sum of two hundred and thirty-one thousand four hundred and thirty-four dollars and forty-six cents, to pay the sum of awards for damages and extra compensation made by the Canal Board in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-one. The sum of seventy-one thousand three hundred and sixty-four dollars and sixty-eight cents, to pay the sum of awards for damages and extra compensation and expenses attending the same, made by the Board of Canal Commissioners in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-one. The sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the interest on the last two foregoing items. The sum of three hundred and fifty-six thousand seven hundred and sixty-six dollars and sixty-five cents, to supply the deficiency in the canal debt sinking fund, to meet the requirements of section three, article seven of the Constitution of the State, for interest on the Canal debt, which was due September thirtieth, eighteen hundred and seventy-one. The sum of five hundred and fifty-seven thousand one hundred dollars, to supply the canal debt sinking fund with means to pay interest on the thirtieth day of September, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, as required by section three, article seven of the Constitution of the State. The sum of one hundred and twenty-four thousand four hundred and fifteen dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, due and to be paid on final settlement of contracts for money heretofore retained by the State to secure the performance of contracts. The sum of four millions fifty-one thousand one hundred and fifty-nine dollars for the present acknowledged deficiency, and the estimated liabilities of the general fund up to the thirtieth day of September, eighteen hundred and seventy-two, for the payment of which no appropriations have been made, but which such indebtedness has been incurred and such liabilities created, according to the report of the late Controller, transmitted to the Legislature January second, eighteen hundred and seventy-two.

SEC. 2. To provide the means of paying the said appropriation for the canals under the provisions of this act, and to pay the floating indebtedness of the State, and the estimated liabilities for the present fiscal year not yet provided by law, a debt of this State is hereby authorized, which debt shall be for the single object of raising the money to pay the appropriation herein named.

SEC. 3. The debt hereby created shall not exceed the sum of six millions six hundred thousand dollars; and there shall be imposed, levied and assessed upon the taxable property of this State a direct annual tax to pay the interest on said debt as such interest falls due, which said direct annual tax shall be sufficient to pay such interest as it falls due. And there shall also be imposed, levied and assessed upon the taxable property of this State a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay in the space of twelve years from the time of the passage of this act, the whole of the debt created under and by virtue of this act. The whole of the debt to be created under and by virtue of the provisions of this act, the principal of one-third part thereof shall be paid in four years from the passage of this act, and the principal of one-third part thereof shall be paid in eight years from the passage of this act, and the principal of one-third part thereof shall be paid in twelve years from the passage of this act.

SEC. 4. To obtain the money necessary for the purposes contemplated by this act, the Controller is authorized to issue the bonds of the State in such sums each as shall seem meet to him, with coupons thereto attached, for the payment of the interest on such bonds, at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, half yearly, on the first days of July and January in each year until the principal is payable, and such debt to be the City of New-York as shall seem meet to him. One-third part of such bonds shall be payable in four years from the passage of this act, one-third part of such bonds shall be payable in eight years from the passage of this act, one-third part of such bonds shall be payable in twelve years from the passage of this act, and the whole principal shall be payable in such place in New-York City as the Controller shall deem meet. The Controller shall, before disposing of said bonds or any of them, advertise the proposals for the same, and shall open the proposals and award the same to the highest bidder at a rate not less than par, which advertising and disposition shall be according to the provisions of law now existing.

SEC. 5. This act shall be submitted to the people at the next general election to be held in this State. The inspectors of election in the different election districts in the State shall provide, at each poll on said election day, a box in the usual form for the reception of the ballots herein provided; and each and every elector of this state may present a ballot, which shall be a paper ticket, on which shall be printed or written, or partly written and partly printed, one of the following forms, namely: "For the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State to create a State debt to pay the canal and general fund deficiencies," or "Against the act to create a State debt to pay the canal and general fund deficiencies." The said ballots shall be so folded as to conceal the contents of the ballots, and shall be indorsed, "Act in relation to canal and general fund deficiencies."

SEC. 6. After finally closing the polls of such election, the inspectors thereof shall count and canvass the ballots given in relation to the proposed amendment, in the same manner as they are required by law to canvass the ballots given for Governor, and thereupon shall set down in writing, and in words at full length, the whole number of votes given "For the proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals," and the whole number of votes given "Against the proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals," and shall certify and subscribe the same, and cause copies thereof to be made and certified and delivered, as prescribed by law in respect to the canvass of votes given at an election for Governor; and all the provisions of law in relation to elections, other than for military and town officers, shall apply to the submission to the people herein provided for.

SEC. 7. The Secretary of State shall, with all convenient dispatch, after this act shall receive the approval of the Governor, cause the same to be struck off and printed upon slips in such numbers as shall be sufficient to supply the different officers of this State concerned in notifying or in holding elections, or in canvassing the votes, and shall transmit the same to such officers.

SEC. 8. Sections five, six and seven of this act shall take effect immediately upon its passage, but the second, third and fourth sections thereof shall not become a law until it is ratified by the people in pursuance of the Constitution and the provisions thereof.

SEC. 9. This act shall be chapter seven hundred of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-two.

CHAPTER 757.

AN ACT to perfect an amendment to the Constitution relative to the Court of Appeals and for the extension of the services of the Commissioners of Appeals.

Passed May 17, 1872, three-fifths being present.

Whereas, The following amendment to the Constitution of this State was adopted by a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the Legislature for the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one; and the said amendment was duly entered on the journals of each branch of the Legislature, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators; and was duly published for three months previous to the time of making such choice in pursuance of the thirteenth article of the Constitution of this State; and whereas, said amendment was also agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each of the said branches of the Legislature for the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, pursuant to the said thirteenth article; which said amendment is in the words following, to wit: "Article 6 is hereby amended by adding thereto an extension of the term of service of the Commissioners of Appeals. Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That the sixth article of the Constitution of this State be amended by adding thereto the following section:

SEC. 28. The Court of Appeals may order any of the causes, not exceeding five hundred in number, pending in that Court at the time of the adoption of this provision, to be heard and determined by the Commissioners of Appeals, and the Legislature may extend the term of service of the Commissioners of Appeals for a period not exceeding two years. Now, therefore, for the purpose of submitting the proposed amendment to the people of this State:

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The inspectors at each poll in the several towns and wards of this State, at the general election to be held in this State on the fifth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, shall provide a box to receive the ballots of the citizens of this State, in relation to the said proposed amendment; and each voter may present a ballot on which shall be written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, one of the following forms, namely: "For the proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals," or "Against the proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals." The said ballots shall be indorsed, "Proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals," and shall be so folded as to conceal the contents of the ballot and exhibit the indorsement. The citizens of this State entitled to vote for members of Assembly in their respective districts shall be entitled to vote on the adoption of the said proposed amendments, during the day of election, in the several election districts in which they reside.

SEC. 2. After finally closing the poll of such election, the inspectors thereof shall count and canvass the ballots given at such election for and against said amendment, in the same manner as they are required by law to canvass the ballots given for Governor, and thereupon shall set down in writing, and in words at full length, the whole number of votes given "For the proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals," and the whole number of votes given "Against the proposed amendment relative to the Court of Appeals," and shall certify and subscribe the same, and cause copies thereof to be made and certified and delivered, as prescribed by law in respect to the canvass of votes given at an election for Governor; and in like manner they shall make and file a certificate of the result of such canvass, which shall be entered of record in the office of the Secretary of State, and shall be published by him in the State paper.

SEC. 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
G. HILTON SCRIBNER,
secretary of State.

SUPREME COURT.—IN THE MATTER of the application of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New-York, relative to the opening of One Hundred and Thirty-sixth-street, from Eighth-avenue to the Harlem River, in the City of New-York.

We, the undersigned Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the above-entitled matter, hereby give notice to the owner or owners, occupant or occupants, of all houses and lots and improved or unimproved lands affected thereby, and to all others whom it may concern, to wit:

That we have completed our estimate and assessment, and that all persons interested in those proceedings, or in any of the lands affected thereby, and who may be opposed to the same, do present their objections in writing, duly verified, to E. B. Hart, Esq., one of the Commissioners, at No. 31 Nassau-street, Room No. 24, in the said City, on or before the 8th day of October, 1872, and that we, the said Commissioners, will hear parties so objecting thereto and for that purpose will be in attendance at our said office on each of said ten days, at 12 o'clock M.

That the abstract of the said estimate and assessment, together with our maps, and also all the affidavits, estimates and other documents which were used by us in making our report, have been deposited in the office of the Department of Public Works in the City of New-York, there to remain until the 21st day of October, 1872.

That the limits embraced by the assessment aforesaid are bounded as follows, to wit: All those lots, pieces or parcels of land, situate, lying and being on both sides of One Hundred and Thirty-sixth-street, between Eighth-avenue and the Harlem River, and extending on either side of One Hundred and Thirty-sixth-street, half the distance to the next street thereto, in said City of New-York.

That our report herein will be presented to the Supreme Court of the State of New-York, at a special term thereof, to be held in the new Court-house at the City Hall, in the City of New-York, on the 12th day of November, 1872, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that then and there, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard thereon, a motion will be made that the said report be confirmed.

Dated NEW-YORK, Sept. 2, 1872.

E. B. HART,
J. S. HENNESSY, } Commissioners.

THE CHILDREN'S FUND

Weekly Statement of the Treasurer's Receipts and Expenditures.

Aggregate Amount of Contributions to Date, $19,164 90.

Total Amount Expended for Excursions and Relief, $12,937 35.

Cash Balance on Hand, $6,227 55—Reports from the Relief Districts—The Next Picnic.

The regular weekly statement of the Poor Children's Fund, as made by the Treasurer from his books, is today presented for the information of contributors. By the accounts which follow, it appears that the sixteen excursions so far given have cost $9,237 71. On these picnics the immense number of 14,887 children have enjoyed a holiday. As there were 1,920 adults, (parents and teachers,) who accompanied the children, the aggregate number taken on these sixteen days rises to 16,807 persons, making the pro rata cost for each individual a fraction over fifty-four cents. The amount of work performed under the relief branch of the fund is given in the reports of the superintendents.

On Wednesday next the seventeenth TIMES excursion will take place. The children will be collected exclusively from the Sixth Ward, the population of which is so dense as to furnish enough little ones to make up a very large party. The demand for tickets by the children has been so great that no mothers can be taken. The juveniles will be well-cared for, however, by Capt. Thomas J. Kennedy and the officers under his command, so that the parents need have no anxiety as to their safety during the excursion. The children are to assemble at the Franklin-street Police Station at 7½ o'clock in the morning, from which point they will proceed to the barge in waiting at the foot of Franklin-street, to start for Excelsior Park, opposite Yonkers. During the day the children will be supplied with sandwiches, cake, ice-cream and lemonade, and the Governor's Island band will accompany the party. At the park the children will be entertained with various amusements.

The Work of Relief—How the Funds are Being Expended.

The relief work in the four districts, into which the City has been divided, progresses in a most satisfactory manner. We append the reports of the several Superintendents.

EAST-SIDE DISTRICT.

The work of the week ending Aug. 31, in Mr. George Calder's district was as follows: Number of families visited, 2,100; number of doctors' visits, (including office,) 85; number of families supplied with food, 104; number of children supplied with food, 392; number of children receiving medical care, 22; number of adults receiving medical care, 8.

The total work of the East-side District to Aug. 31: Number of families visited, 31,900; number of doctor's visits, 808; number of families supplied with food, 650; number of children supplied with food, 2,627; number of children restored to health, 248.

The above is exclusive of the surplus food of several excursions which have been distributed among the poor of this district. On Saturday last Mr. Calder collected over 600 poor children from the streets, and gave each a large bag-ful of sandwiches, cake and fruit, which was his share of the overflowing generosity of the good people of Boonton on Friday last.

WEST-SIDE DISTRICT.

According to the report of Rev. A. Wiswall, it appears that the whole number of visits made by the members of St. John's Guild during the last two weeks was 1,150. The number of families assisted during the past week was 46. The total number of individuals assisted was 207. The Superintendent also received and distributed six barrels of apples and a large number of sandwiches, besides one barrel of crackers, which came from Boonton.

UP-TOWN DISTRICT.

Rev. B. B. Leacock makes the following report: For the past week we report our visitors as very actively engaged in the work of relief. Our reports of Aug. 30 present a record of 3,348 visits made by them; and 348 cases relieved. The accounts handed in this week amount to $720 44. This shows a very large expenditure when compared with that of previous weeks, and is partially accounted for by the fact that from three of the sub-districts there were no accounts handed in last week, and that one or two large accounts run over the whole period since the work began. A very large proportion of the 346 cases reported are new ones, and we believe if all the cases in which relief has been administered were here summed up, the expenses of relief for the past week would average about $1 50 each. Considering the extreme necessity of many of the relieved, this shows considerable economy. More cases, and probably worse ones, have come under the notice of our visitors in the past than during any other week of their labors. Though the fund is intended primarily for children, adults are also relieved where the welfare of children depends upon them; and thus we embrace persons of all ages, from the helpless infant a few days old to the equally helpless colored woman 100 years old last "Fourth," whom Dr. Donor has, during last week, been attending in her palsied affliction. The families of drunken parents and of revolutionary martyrs have alike benefited by its operations. Our physicians report some of their worst cases as out of danger and rapidly improving. Four of the cases under treatment by Dr. S. D. Powell, in "Shantytown," have during the past week recovered, two with bronchitis, one with erythema, and one with cholera infantum, and an infant with remittent fever has died. Dr. Baker's and Dr. Donor's patients are doing admirably, as are the doctors themselves. The cases on the east side, who have as yet had no opportunity of an excursion, and those who were disappointed by the unfavorable state of the weather two weeks ago, are clamorous for a picnic, and apparently need one. As it has been decided to give more excursions than originally intended, we urge their claims on this behalf, and guarantee a goodly number of children. [An excursion has been arranged for these children, to take place on Saturday.]

DOWN-TOWN DISTRICT.

The following is the report of Mr. Charles O'Connor, Superintendent of the down-town district, for the week ending the 31st inst.: Number of children receiving relief, 292; number of adults receiving relief, 31; total, 323. Number of families relieved, 112; number of visits, 185.

A Farmer Recovers Judgment Against a Neighbor, and is then Sent to Prison for Five Years.

From the Troy Times, Aug. 31.

A trial has been in progress in Salem for the past week which has attracted considerable attention. Judge Leslie, of Saratoga County, presided. It appears that a man named Conant some time ago sold a cow to a farmer of Union Village, named George S. Wood, representing that it was in a healthy condition. It proved to be diseased, and Wood instituted a suit against Conant for slander, the latter having said that the former sold diseased beef. He recovered damages to the extent of $480. This week Wood was placed on trial for perjury, having sworn falsely during the suit for slander. It is believed that he and six of his relatives have perjured themselves, for out of that fifty witnesses sworn, they were in direct opposition to twenty, and also to the records of the Court at the previous trial, the records of the lawyers and, of everybody else. The jury in the case came in at 2½ o'clock this morning, sent for the Court, and announced a verdict of "guilty." Wood was then sentenced to five years' confinement in the State Prison. He never flinched because of the verdict or the punishment, but his relatives, and his mother in particular, created considerable disturbance. The latter burst out with a harangue of some length, exclaiming: "Oh, you wicked men! How dare you convict my son upon such a pack of lies!" Subsequently, the family seemed to realize the real position in which Wood was placed, and gave vent to their feelings in expressions of genuine sorrow.

Meeting of the Veterans New-York State Committee.

A meeting of the New-York Veterans State Committee was held at the Fifth-avenue Hotel Saturday. The following-named members were present:

Capt. Harry Hughes, Williamsburg; Capt. John E. Dowley, City; Gen. Joseph C. Pinckney, City; Major Wm. H. Corss, City; Col. A. P. Ketchum, City; Major E. L. Sproat, Monticello; Gen. George A. Sharpe, Ulster County; Capt. R. L. Fox, Otsego County; Major W. B. Thomas, Auburn; Gen. A. W. Brazee, Lockport; Gen. J. C. Reynolds, Rochester; Col. Geo T. Hopper, City; Capt. E. C. Parkinson, Brooklyn. Major Geo. D. Weightman, Albany.

The meeting was called to order by Gen. Geo. H. Sharpe, the Chairman. Col A. P. Ketchum acted as Secretary. The following were appointed members of the Executive Committee: Gen. George H. Sharpe, Chairman; Col. A. P. Ketchum, Secretary; Col. George T. Hopper, Treasurer; Gen. Joseph C. Pinckney, Gen. A. W. Brazee, Gen. J. C. Curtis, Col. E. B. Gere, Capt. E. C. Parkinson, Major E. L. Sproat and Capt. William J. Morgan.

A resolution was adopted as follows:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that the general plan of its future work should be as follows:

1. To organize, as far as possible, one or more Veterans' Republican Clubs in each Assembly District in the State.

2. To prepare and have published a series of campaign documents, and, through the agency of the local clubs, secure their general distribution.

3. To hold soldiers' and sailors' meetings at all the prominent points in the State, to be addressed exclusively by prominent veterans.

The report of the members of the Committee relative to the Pittsburg Convention was to the effect that a general enthusiasm prevails at all points relative to the meeting, and that the attendance from New-York will be very large.

NOTES.

The Board or Appeals of the National Trotting Association held its annual session at the Everett House, in this City, on Saturday last, Amasa Sprague, the President, in the chair. The following cases were decided:

Edward S. Stokes vs. H. N. Smith, in reference to a bet of $10,000 on a match between Josephine and Juno at Prospect Park last year. As neither party appeared the argument was postponed until the next meeting.

B. F. Cowan vs. National Park at Kalamazoo; application disallowed; Cowan held liable for entrance money.

J. S. Baker vs. Fleetwood Park Association. It was ordered that the Association refund entrance fee claimed, with interest at seven per cent.

Peter H. Paige vs. Rensselaer Park Association; petition for new trial denied on ground that sufficient reason is not shown.

Application of Prospect Park Association to reinstate Phillips; declined.

C. Pierce vs. R. Terwilliger, for removal of penalty of expulsion on Pierce and his horse Rattler; not allowed.

Application of James M. Pettit, for a reward; allowed.

C. S. Green vs. Prospect Park Association; claim allowed.

Petition of C. H. Blanchard, for removal of penalty of expulsion against horse Colonel Moulton; disallowed.

D. B. Hubbard vs. Quickstep Park Association; appellant reinstated.

Petition of Bay District Agricultural Association, of San Francisco, for removal of penalty of expulsion against Charles Kerr and horse Charlie; allowed.

Petition of the Last Chance Association, for removal of penalty of expulsion against horse Hotspur; disallowed.

Turfmen will regret to learn that the fine race mare Midday, has ended her turf career. She was recently purchased by Mr. C. S. Lewis, of Canada, from Mr. T. W. Doswell, and was on her way to Montreal from Saratoga in company with several other horses in the same car, when they got up a kicking match with the most serious results. Midday, it is reported, being so badly injured that her owner was obliged to have her killed.

At last we have the truth in regard to the Longfellow-Bassett race at Saratoga. The opponents of Longfellow have held to the position that the son of Lexington was beaten on his merits, but John Harper's old colored trainer, "Mose," asseverates that he gave the jockey, Sample, orders to trail Bassett for a mile and three-quarters, and then pass him. This agrees with the positions of the horses at the half-mile pole, when Longfellow went to the head of Bassett and suddenly went back, and it was probably at this point that the accident to the great horse happened.

The trotting prospects for this Fall are of the most cheering character. The trotters who have been affording sport to our bucolic friends, are returning to this vicinity, and many of them are taking their work at Fleetwood and Prospect.

The September meeting of the Prospect Park Fair Ground Association begins on the 17th inst. The first race in a purse for $750, for horses that have never beaten 2:50, and the second a purse of $1,000, for horses that have never beaten 2:35. On the second day there will be a purse of $1,500, for horses that have never beaten 2:26, and $1,250 for 2:31 horses. On the third day a purse of $850 is offered for horses that have never beaten 2:38, and of $2,000 for 2:23 horses. The fourth day will comprise a purse of $1,350 for horses that have never beaten 2:28, and $2,000 for all horses. The fifth and last day of the meeting will be an interesting one. There will be a purse of $1,000 for all under saddle, and a purse of $1,250 for a dash of three miles, in harness, with $500 added to the horse beating Dutchman's time. The entries are to close at Johnson's, corner Broadway and Twenty-eighth-street, on Wednesday, 4th inst., at 9 o'clock P. M.

An appeal has been made by several turfmen for journalistic aid to endeavor to revive racing at Charleston, S. C., Macon, Savannan and Augusta, Ga. This laudable desire to reinstate the turf to its former proud position in the South will meet with the hearty support of every true sportsman.

The Paris Mutual pools at Jerome Park, Saratoga and Long Branch have been so successful that an attempt should be made by one of the trotting associations to introduce them at the Fall meetings. They could not fail to become popular, and pecuniarily useful to the associations.

The Fall meeting of the Fleetwood Park Association will begin this year on the 1st of October and continue to the 5th of the month. The amount of purses up for competition amounts to the large sum of $12,750. The programme has been judiciously arranged and will afford good sport. It is officially announced that the Association will stringently carry out the rules of the National Association for the Improvement of the American Trotting Turf, and that any delinquency on the part of any will be met with the penalties prescribed by the rules governing the associate courses. This should have been done at the Spring meeting.

A new set of men have taken hold of the Point Breeze Park, Philadelphia, who promise to infuse new life into the trotting turf in the Quaker City, under the dispensation of the "Citizens' Association." The Fall meeting will be held on the 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th of the present month, and the premiums amount to $14,850. The entries will close on Saturday next, Sept. 7.

Messrs. Hunter & Travers have sold to M. J. Tully, (the owner of Vesuvius) their imported bay colt Buckden, three years, by Lord Clifden, out of Consequence, by Ray Middleton. Buckdenis fashionably bred, and is a good colt if properly handled. He was badly ridden in the two steeplechases for three-year olds at Saratoga, but he will yet make his mark.

We have received the programme for the Fall Meeting of the Kentucky Racing Association of Lexington. It gives promise of excellent sport. The meeting is to begin on Monday, Sept. 16, and on that day the two races will consist of the Phœnix Hotel Stakes, for three-year olds, mile heats, which has nine entries, sons and daughters of Bonnie Scotland, Planet, Lightning, War Dance, Australian, Asteroid and Marion. The second race is a sweepstakes for two-year-old fillies, three-quarter-mile dash. On the second day there is a mile-heat race and a sweepstake for two-year old colts, three-quarter dash. The third day promises a good race of two-mile heats and a sweepstakes for three-year olds which have never won a race. On the fourth day there will be a dash of a mile and a half, purse $200, and a selling race of mile heats. There are two sweepstakes on the fifth day, the Produce Stakes for three-year olds, two-mile heats, when the produce of Planet, War Dance, Lightning, Asteroid, Australian and Marion will contest for supremority. The sweepstakes for two-year olds, mile dash, has seventeen entries, all high-bred ones. The sixth day will bring the meeting to a close with a selling race of a mile and a quarter, a consolation purse of $150, mile heats, for beaten horses, and a sweepstakes for all ages, dash of three miles.

It is now stated that there will be a Fall Meeting at Narragansett Park, Providence, several appeals for it being made to Col. Sprague by turfmen, which he has found difficult to resist.

The Fleetwood early in the field for next season, and claim from the 16th to the 23d of next June for their Spring Meeting.

The Brooklyn Fire Marshal's Report.

Fire Martial Keady's official report for the month of August presents the following exhibit: Number of fires during the month, 30; estimated damage to buildings and stock, $47,725; insurance on same, $163,000; actual loss, $36,625. Two of the fires were caused by kerosene lamp explosions, and two by incendiarism, the remainder were from defective flues and other causes. Four persons were burned to death, viz: on Aug. 15, Catharine Jones, aged 23; Aug. 29, Catharine Griffith; Aug. 30, Ann Fredericks; Aug. 18, Maria Wickham. Michael Doll and James Farrell were arrested for arson.

PITTSBURG CONVENTION.

Address to the Soldiers and Sailors of New-York.

HEAD-QUARTERS NEW-YORK VETERANS' STATE COMMITTEE, FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL, NEW-YORK CITY, Aug. 29, 1872.

To the Soldiers and Sailors of the State of New-York:

COMRADES: The National Mass Convention of the Veterans to be held at Pittsburg, Penn., on the tenth anniversary of the battle of Antietam, Sept. 17, 1872, promises to be the largest gathering of the men who upheld the flag when assailed since the grand review at Washington in 1865.

The results of the Convention will be most important in the pending campaign, and we believe that no other agency will do more toward vindicating our old commander.

Our comrades from all the States in the Union will attend in great numbers, and we feel especially desirous that the representation from the Empire State should be such as to do credit to her proud name.

The Veterans' State Convention held at Utica, on the 20th inst., recommended the election by the veteran clubs of three special delegates from each Congressional district. These delegates should be elected at once; but as the meeting is to be a mass convention, no one should refrain from attending because he has not been designated as a special delegate, for all men who wore the blue will be equally welcome there and entitled to seats.

The following-named railroads have consented to issue excursion tickets to those who attend the Convention:

New-York Central and Hudson River; New-York and Erie, including all lines under their respective control; and all the roads in the State of Pennsylvania.

Greatly reduced rates for all who live in the vicinity of New-York City have been secured. A special train will leave Jersey City, on Pennsylvania Railroad, at eight o'clock on Sunday evening, Sept. 15, which will carry its passengers to Pittsburg and return for $10 each.

The names of delegates elected from Congressional districts should be sent at once to the Secretary of the State Committee, Fifth-avenue Hotel, New-York.

The unparalleled slanders heaped upon the fair fame of the man who, under the providence of God, was the chief instrument in suppressing the rebellion and preserving the Union, make it right and duty to associate ourselves once more for his vindication, and for the defence of the principles which led him and us through the contest.

GEO. H. SHARPE, Chairman.
A. P. KETCHAM, Secretary.
L. E. DUDLEY, Assistant Secretary.

THE GOVERNOR OF JAMAICA.

His Visit to New-York—Some Interesting Facts Relative to the Island of Jamaica—What He Thinks of the New World.

On Friday last there arrived, on board the steam-ship St. Thomas, the Governor-General of the Island of Jamaica, Sir John P. Grant, who came accompanied by his Attorney-General, Hon. M. Scharsh. Both of these gentlemen are stopping at the Brevoort House, and intend remaining in the City until the close of the present week, when Sir John will sail for England, and the Attorney-General will proceed to make a tour of the Lakes, Niagara Falls, and the River St. Lawrence, before returning to Jamaica.

Sir John P. Grant is a native of Scotland, and sixty-four years of age. At the age of eighteen he entered the service of the East India Company, and in due time rose to the rank of Deputy Secretary of India in the Revenue Department, subsequently becoming Secretary of Bengal and a member of the Supreme Council of India. The ability he displayed in this latter position during the many years he held it led to his being appointed Lieutenant-Governor. During the mutiny of 1857-9, he gave such important services to the Crown that the Queen invested him with the order of the Bath. When the blacks of the Island of Jamaica revolted about six years ago against Gov. Eyre, the British Government sent Sir John to govern the province and restore peace and order. In this he succeeded, and the island is now in a high state of prosperity.

Sir John seems to be much pleased with New-York and environs, and will probably occupy his time in visiting every point of interest. He represents the blacks to be very quiet and industrious; that the province is in so prosperous a state that the revenue collected last year largely exceeded the expenses of the Government. When his four months' leave expires Sir John will leave England for Jamaica direct.

Death of a Base-Ballist.

Albert Thake, the left-fielder of the Atlantic Base-ball Club, was drowned yesterday afternoon while out fishing in the stream, near Fort Hamilton. He fell out of the boat, and the tide carried him instantly beyond the reach of his comrades. This melancholy occurrence will probably necessitate a postponement of the Atlantic-Eckford game, which was to have taken place this afternoon.

Fire in Fulton-Street.

At 8 o'clock last evening, a fire occurred in the four-story brick building No. 69 Fulton-street, owned by John M. Dodd; damage to building about $800; insured for $10,000. The fire originated on the second floor, occupied by John McHugh & Co., dealers in and importers of cork; damage to stock about $2,500; insurance not ascertained. The first, fourth and basement floors are occupied by H. B. Kirk & Co., dealers in fine groceries, wines, cigars, &c.; damage to stock by water about $1,500. The third floor is occupied by Colombo & Tacchabure, manufacturers of thermometers, barometers, &c.; damage to stock about $400.

Sunday Brawls.

Michael Fitzgerald, aged eighteen, of No. 33 Greenwich-street, was found at 1 o'clock yesterday morning in Whitehall-street, suffering from two severe scalp-wounds, inflicted by some unknown assailant. Fitzgerald received medical attendance, and was sent home.

At 2½ o'clock yesterday morning, Michael Burns, aged twenty-four, of No. 73 Greenwich-street, was shot in the back by Matthew Toole, during a fracas at the corner of West and Liberty streets. The ball was extracted, and Burns left for home. Toole escaped.

Funeral of the Late Amnon Macvey.

The funeral of the late Amnon Macvey, for the past thirty-five years Superintendent of Public School Buildings in this City, took place yesterday morning from his residence, No. 143 West Tenth-street. The funeral services were performed at the Third Universalist Church, corner of Bleecker and Downing streets, by Rev. E. C. Sweeser, from whence the remains were conveyed to Green-Wood Cemetery for interment. The following personal friends of the deceased acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. T. Brennan, Magnus Gross, S. B. Furbush, Samuel Tribit, B. Quackenbush, E. Knapp, H. Taylor and J. F. Van Riper. There were also present the members and officers of the Board of Public Instruction, and members of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen.

Reported Arrest of Harry Redmond.

It is reported on reliable authority that Harry Redmond, the Wall-street broker who failed last week owing to the heavy fall in the price of gold, has been arrested at the suit of John F. Underhill, broker, of No. 62 Wall-street, on a charge of obtaining $5,000 in gold from the latter under false pretenses. This $5,000 was obtained from Mr. Underhill by Redmond giving a currency check in exchange, which was, however, returned from the Clearing-house as "not good." Redmond gave bail to await the issue. It is understood that he is $93,000 in debt to his brother, Gould Redmond, as well as being otherwise heavily involved.

NEW-YORK AND SUBURBAN NEWS.

NEW-YORK.

The Beethoven Maennerchor gave an entertainment at its club-house last evening.

The Ninth Regiment Band, under the direction of Mr. D. L. Downing, gave a concert at Jones' Wood, yesterday afternoon.

Robert Woodman, a clerk in the employ of Lemuel P. Dodge, of No. 26 Barclay-street, was held for trial at the Tombs, yesterday, for appropriating $24 from his employer.

An unknown man was found, yesterday morning, insensible from a fall in front of No. 268 West Thirty-sixth-street, and was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

John G. Adams, aged twenty-two, of South Norwalk, Conn., fell at the corner of Bowery and Prince-street, yesterday, and dislocated his hip. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Terence Burns, while sitting on the Atlantic Dock last evening, was assaulted and beaten over the head by Patrick Burk, a private watchman. Burns' injuries are quite serious.
